PARTY FUNDS CUT DOWN BY SENATE PROBE

Money for Campaign Purposes Scarce as Expenditure Investigation Continues
ONLY SMALL AMOUNTS
Difficult to Get Large-sized Contributions for Important Party Fights

BY DAVID LAYRENCE
Copyright 1928, Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Money for campaign purposes may be scarce this year. The announcement that the Senate had adopted a resolution to carry on a continuing investigation of all campaign expenditures is likely to make it difficult for the solicitors of funds to get large sized contributions. And it is a well known fact that the gathering of small sums takes a good deal longer than the time usually available to national campaign organizations.

WAIT FOR NOMINATION
The difficulty is that until the candidates are nominated, the contributions are not forthcoming. For while a goodly percentage of contributors give to a party for traditions' sake, many of them prefer to give their support when the candidate and his principles are revealed.

The Democrats in 1916 had the most elaborate fund gathering machinery for small contributions that has yet been devised but they knew long in advance of the convention that President Wilson was going to be renominated. Millions of letters of solicitation were sent out and the response to this direct-by-mail campaign was remarkable. It was estimated that nearly two million dollars was raised by small contributions.

Both parties today, however, will have no such advantage. Until the first place, money has to be appropriated immediately after the convention and the usual custom has been to spend the money on the assumption that the funds would be raised or that the funds could be incurred which could be wiped out after the campaign was over.

But since Will Hays got into difficulties trying to wipe out a deficit, the idea of spending more than a campaign committee has available will not be popular. The two national organizations who are now on now on to show just what they are worth, their money for and what the source of supply is. Naturally the contributions to state organizations are not subject to federal scrutiny and in some instances large contributions have been made to state campaigns which in reality have been smoke screens for national campaigns. With the tendency of the Senate to inquire into state affairs, as was done in the Illinois primary case, however, the risk involved in trying to spend state funds for national purposes may be too great for the practical politicians to assume.

From the latter part of June till the first week in November, means just a little more than three months to raise four or five million dollars in small sums. Can either campaign committee do it in that time? The chances are against it and the probability is that the 1928 campaign will see much less money spent in both sides than in any campaign since the war.

SINCLAIR EXPLAINS OIL PARTNERSHIP

Much-Feted Bremen Crew Prepare For Long Tour

New York (AP)—The much-feted crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen will be back in New York Thursday for a continuation of festivities before leaving for a tour of the country, probably May 8.
Their New York visit came to a temporary end Tuesday night with the city's banquet at the Hotel Commodore which 3,600 leading citizens and representatives of Germany, Ireland and Canada attended.
Just after major Fitzmaurice, Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld entered the audience stood in silent tribute to Floyd Bennett, who gave his life attempting to carry aid to them on Greenland island.
The flags of three nations—Germany, Ireland and the United States—formed the decorations of the hall with a tiny reproduction of the Bremen suspended from the ceiling.
In addition to "The Wearin' of the Green," "Deutschland Uber Alles" and the "Star Spangled Banner" the band played the songs "Skybirds" and "Mitchel held or heaven," written by August J. Koehl, uncle of the German flier, in honor of the Bremen's crew.

MANY SPEAKERS
Mayor Walker in introducing the fliers said he believed the city's greeting was one of the finest demonstrations of the heart he ever witnessed.
R. Frederick W. von Prittwitz, the German ambassador said he saw in the Bremen's flight "a symbol of conciliation, of peace and of good will. Those who ten years ago fought each other in the air above the battlefields, fought the elements together and achieved a victory for humanity."
Timothy A. Smiddy, minister of the Irish Free state declared the willingness of the fliers to lose their lives "in order to save the greater life of the world."

SAYS BUSINESS IS REASON FOR STANDARD DEAL

Advantageous to Both Concerns as Each Had Large Refineries in Same Cities
Washington (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair told the senate Teapot Dome committee that he and Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, frequently discussed the Continental Trading Company oil deal but that neither disclosed to the other than he was getting bonds from the Continental or from H. M. Blackmer, who was described as the principal figure in the transaction.

Testimony before the committee has been that Stewart and Sinclair received more than three quarters of a million each after the Continental had sold oil to their companies at a profit of 25 cents a barrel. This money, they have testified, has now been turned back to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company, owned jointly by the Sinclair and Standard Oil of Indiana interests.
Sinclair said Wednesday that his oil concerns and the Standard of Indiana entered into partnership for "business reasons."
"It was advantageous to both," he declared, explaining that both his companies and the Indiana Standard had large refineries in Chicago and Kansas City and they went in together on the Sinclair Pipe Line Co. to transport oil to those refineries.
"This ended the sharp competition between the companies," asked Chairman Nye.

NO COMPETITION
"There was no competition in the transportation of oil," Sinclair replied.
"You and Colonel Stewart guaranteed the contract between the Continental and Colonel Humphreys?" he pursued. (A. E. Humphreys, of Denver, who sold the oil to the Continental.)
"I did not guarantee the contract personally. It was subject to the approval of the directors of my company," Sinclair replied.
"What was the occasion of your visit to Mr. Fall (Albert B. Fall) in November, 1922?"
"I went down there to see about the loss of a land reserve number three (Teapot Dome) and Osgood Indian lands."

Sinclair's attention was called to the fact that these matters were discussed on his visit to the former interior secretary in December, 1921.
"Oh, yes, I went there in 1922 to discuss royalty oil from the Salt Creek fields," he explained.
"Is it not true that your bid for that royalty oil was made after the advertised hour for receiving bids?" Nye pursued.

"I cannot say,"
"Can you tell how you gained control?"

Egyptian Note Changes England's War Attitude

London (AP)—The Egyptian crisis took a favorable turn Wednesday when Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister, announced in the house of commons that the instructions which it had previously been thought necessary to give to certain British warships had now been countermanded.
The reply had been handed to the British high commissioner at Cairo Tuesday night. It explained that the public assemblies bill to which the British government took exception, had been put aside until next November.
The Egyptian note, however, explained the difficulties of withdrawal of the bill in view of the previous action of the Egyptian legislature, and this was taken into consideration by the British government. It is probable that there will be further exchanges before definite action is taken on either side.
Immediately on the delivery of the British ultimatum to the Egyptian premier, British warships went out from Malta. It was presumed they were on their way to Egypt, but it was announced officially from Cairo that they were proceeding to Corinth. The British foreign minister also announced that the British reply to the Egyptian government's note, while welcoming its sentiments, warned the Egyptian government that if the assemblies bill were revived or similar legislation introduced Great Britain would again be obliged to intervene.

Former Army Airman Tries To Break Endurance Mark

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. (AP)—After an exciting false start earlier in the day Roy L. Thomas, former army flier, took the air unaccompanied at 12:30:1 o'clock Eastern daylight saving time Wednesday afternoon in an attempt to break the endurance flight record of 53 hours, 36 minutes and 41 seconds.

Thomas was the first flier to make use of the new runway and the small crowd gathered there for the time that the runway was to be christened the heaviest field load a single whirlwind had ever been called to lift, wobbling precariously down the entire 9,100 feet and lifted only at the very end. Carrying 325 gallons of fuel and weighing 5,500 pounds in all, the plane skimmed close to the earth and could not be forced higher than 100 feet. After circling at this altitude for about 10 miles, Thomas dumped his gas tanks and succeeded in making a safe landing.

The second takeoff was made with 50 gallons less gasoline and the reduced weight resulted in a clean lift from the 3,000-foot mark.
Thomas carried for food two roast chickens, half a dozen apples, and a bottle of coffee. A radio, which he installed in the plane to enable him to get weather reports, and, he added, "to amuse me."

Before both takeoffs Wednesday the plane's barograph was sealed by the National Aeronautics Association.
The present endurance record is held by Eddie Stinson and George Hattelman.
Bluefields, Nicaragua (AP)—The American owned gold mines, La Luz and Bonanza, in northern Nicaragua, have been hit by a series of earthquakes, according to reports received Wednesday.
Assistant Manager Johnson of the La Luz mine, authority for the report, said that all the dynamite at the mine was used to destroy them. The region is described by the natives as being responsible for the outrage.
The fate of George B. Marshall, assistant manager of the La Luz mine, reported to have been seized is still unknown.

AVIATOR INJURED WHEN PLANE STARTS SUDDENLY

Watertown (AP)—Delos Dudley, port owner of the new Janesville airport and aviator, is in the hospital here with a fractured left leg and left arm, received when he was struck and thrown by a plane propeller he was turning.
Dudley was helping start the plane motor and had turned the propeller a few times when the motor, hot, started suddenly without the switch being turned on.

CAPTURE BOY BANDITS IN MILWAUKEE CHASE

Milwaukee (AP)—Interrupted as they were robbing patrons of the Madison restaurant early Wednesday, two youthful bandits were captured after a chase through downtown streets.
A third bandit who had just held up a cab driver, and who was standing guard at the door of the restaurant when a patrolman came in sight, escaped.

The two youths gave their names as Edward Mirecki, 22, of Superior, Wis., and Frank Mirecki, 21, of Milwaukee, a cousin. The youths, flourishing revolvers, had commanded patrons to "lie down" and had just taken some money from the restaurant proprietor, fled as a patrolman walked up. After a chase, they were captured.

FIND LABORER DEAD NEAR RAILROAD TRACK

Janesville (AP)—His skull fractured, the body of William Penwell, 42, Janesville laborer, was found along the Northwestern road tracks between Janesville and Alton Wednesday. He had apparently been hit by a train.
He leaves his wife and a sister, of LaCrosse.

MYSTERIOUS BLASTS HELP MANAWA SCHOOL GET NICE BIG PIANO

Manawa (AP)—The Little Creek district will get a piano, and a nice big one at that, largely because pranksters set off dynamite blasts and fired crosses during rehearsals for a school benefit.
The benefit was held Tuesday night. There were no blasts, no burning crosses. But the reports of what had happened at rehearsals brought a throng to the school. The S. R. O. sign had to be hung out long before the affair started.
The mystery surrounding the blasts made the benefit a all-Waupaca county fair. People drove from all parts of the county to attend—and see if there were any blasts. There weren't. And Little Creek will have its piano.

BREMEN FLYERS MAY RETURN TO HOMES BY AIR

Trans-Atlantic Airmen Tell Newspapers They May Recross Ocean in Junkers

Washington (AP)—Major James Fitzmaurice of the Bremen crew told Washington newspapermen Wednesday that he and his companions may fly their ship back to Germany. Doing most of the talking for the German-Irish crew at a special conference with the newspapermen at the Mayflower hotel, Fitzmaurice also disclosed that the Bremen will be flown from Germany in time for the fliers to begin an air tour of the country from New York next Wednesday.
If for any reason the Bremen cannot be used the Slater Junkers plane will transport them over the country, he said.
"What do you think of Germany?" asked a reporter.
"I never want to see it again," he said through an interpreter, while the two fliers nodded approval.
The aviators plan to leave Thursday morning by air for New York.

DISPUTE CLAIM TO RACINE CITY LOT

Madison (AP)—The state today is trying to establish title to a city lot in Racine's residential section, title to which a citizen of that city claims was washed away by the waters of Lake Michigan prior to 1869.
Harry E. Mann of Racine is seeking to enjoin the state land commission from selling a lot adjoining his home. The commission claims the lot as part of the public school land. Mann contends that prior to 1869 the lot was covered with water and that prior built by his predecessors in the title of his own lot finally cleared it of water in 1914. He claims title under the law by right of adverse possession.
A. D. Campbell, chief clerk of the land commission, and a representative of the attorney general's department left Madison for Racine Tuesday to represent the state at a hearing in circuit court.

MILWAUKEE MAN QUITS FIGHT FOR FREE PRESS

Milwaukee (AP)—His fight for a "free speech press" abandoned, Winfred C. Howe, former history instructor at West Division high school here, has asked the school board for reinstatement and agrees to apologize.
Howe, one-time instructor in the Shubergan (Wis.) schools, agreed to resign his position as history teacher and Sun, rival school newspaper, which he established in connection with his free speech fight.
But the board, receiving his statement Tuesday night, voted to uphold his suspension. He must now demand a hearing before it.

HOOPER MEN REJOICE

Hoover forces were jubilant over the large vote cast for the secretary of commerce.
"It appears as if Hoover will carry California by hundreds of thousands of votes, which is very remarkable in the face of no contest," said Charles L. Neumiller, Republican leader. Indications are that Hoover will receive over 70 per cent of the total vote.

BOYS PILLAGE CHURCH IN SEARCH OF THRILL

Eau Claire (AP)—Desire for a thrill has placed two farm youths behind the bars of the Eau Claire county jail. The youths, according to authorities, confessed pillaging two weeks ago of Holy Angels Catholic church near here. Visits were made to the church on the nights of April 20, 21 and 22. The youths were shot out and the priest's vestments taken. They said they did it for a thrill.
The two are Otto Flitschcock and Albert Krenz. They will be arraigned Wednesday.

LEADS RIVALS BY 72,000 IN COAST BATTLE

Routs Dry Democrats of Southern California, Led by William Gibbs McAdoo

SURPRISE FOR WALSH

Montana Senator, Thought to Have Strong Support, Runs Poor Third

San Francisco (AP)—Returns from 7,500 precincts of the 5,753 in California's presidential preference primary gave Herbert Hoover 523,433 votes. From 7,561 precincts Gov. Smith received 127,101 votes. Senator Reed 55,077 and Senator Walsh 43,537.

San Francisco (AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith continued Wednesday to maintain his position as California's choice for the Democratic presidential nomination as primary election returns from 6,923 precincts out of 8,553 in the state gave him 120,644 votes. Senator Reed had 50,459 and Senator Walsh 35,876.
The same number of precincts gave Herbert Hoover 453,115 votes as the Republican choice. The election binds the Democratic delegates of 26 to register the state's preference at Houston next June. By voting for Smith, Hoover will receive the 25 votes of the Republican delegation at Kansas City next month.
The victory of Governor Smith was heralded by the Smith supporters as a forerunner of what is going to happen at Houston and the Republicans likewise claim the Republican returns the basis of a forecast that Secretary Hoover would receive 70 per cent of the California vote next fall if he is nominated.

STATE TURNS WET

The result was interpreted in many quarters as an indication that California will turn wet in the wet column after being ranked for years as a dry state.
In the last election in which the prohibition angle figured, southern California turned in an overwhelming majority vote which defeated a proposal to repeal the state prohibition law. This was a year and a half ago. The vote in Los Angeles, home of McAdoo, the theoretical fortress of the dry Democrats, was the outstanding feature. Of the county's 2,537 precincts, 1,833 gave the "wet" vote.

Hoover 151,570; Smith 25,290; Reed 17,640; Walsh 12,710.
Walsh's failure to register more heavily also was a surprise. Supported by McAdoo in the south and a group of prominent Democrats in northern California, the Montana senator came in a poor third.

The complete San Francisco vote, 596 precincts, was:
Hoover, 65,441; Smith 30,002; Reed 5,343; Walsh 1,722.
Reed, however, issued a statement blaming his loss on "thirsty Republicans and misdirected drys" while the Smith headquarters announced it had laid claim to the entire Democratic delegation.

Former United States Senator James D. Phelan, who nominated McAdoo for the presidential ticket in New York in 1924, but who since has changed his party support to the Smith forces, declared "the Democrats of California at the critical time in the campaign have, as in the case of the election of President Wilson, performed a great and necessary service. It presages the defeat of the other pretenders in the general election who will endeavor to camouflage the corrupt history of the recent past, which cannot be concealed or condoned. The election will probably turn to the Democratic party to rebuke the recent leaders of the Republican party."

HOOPER MEN REJOICE

Hoover forces were jubilant over the large vote cast for the secretary of commerce.
"It appears as if Hoover will carry California by hundreds of thousands of votes, which is very remarkable in the face of no contest," said Charles L. Neumiller, Republican leader. Indications are that Hoover will receive over 70 per cent of the total vote.

DRUNK UNINJURED IN FALL BEFORE ENGINE

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—A man staggered and fell in the path of the flying Pan-American crack train of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, here Tuesday night.
The limited thundered over his body, the engineer jamming on brakes furiously.
When trainmen returned to pick up the corpse, it leaped from the right of way and fled, unsteadily, to the right. Overaken, the "victim" was arrested for drunkenness. He had remained prone during the seconds the train passed and, aside from being "stiff" a condition he attributed to fear, was uninjured. He is Lee Holcomb, of Beaverton, Ala.

From a Splay Pin To An Elephant

It has been said, and with a great deal of truth, that anything from splay pins to an elephant can be successfully sold through Classified Ads.
We've never had occasion to advertise an elephant but we know that the limit of possibility has not been reached as yet. Miss Barbara Massonette, 1126 W. Packard St. advertised a Clarendon for sale which was sold immediately. The advertiser states that the number of calls resulting indicated that a dozen clarendons might have been sold. LET CLASSIFIEDS solve your problem.

NEGRO NAMED NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS JOB

Committeemen Pick Thompson Man to Replace Late Congressman Madden

Chicago (AP)—Four ward committeemen substituted for a primary election Tuesday and named Oscar DePriest, 57-year-old Negro, as the Republican congressional nominee from the first Illinois district. His name will replace that of the late Congressman Madden.

DePriest, a former alderman and county commissioner, is one of many Chicago politicians who have been the victim of the "Nigger" campaign.
Although DePriest is aligned with the Republican faction dominated by Mayor Thompson, the mayor was understood to have taken no active part in urging DePriest's selection.
The first congressional district is largely populated by Negroes, yet the late Congressman Madden won re-nomination easily over the Negro candidate, William L. Dawson. No Negro ever has been elected to congress from this state, and there has been no Negro member of congress from Illinois since 1890.

Dawson indicates he could challenge the selection of DePriest on the ground that the four committeemen who made the choice had not received their certificates of election following the April election, and so were unqualified officials. However, saw little merit in the Dawson argument.

CLEAR WAR COMMANDER OF SACRIFICING LIVES

Corraige, Ont. (AP)—Sir Arthur Currie, wartime commander of the Canadian forces Wednesday stood cleared of the charge that he needlessly sacrificed Canadian lives in engagements with the German near Mons, Belgium on the day of the armistice.
A jury awarded Sir Arthur $500 damages in his $50,000 suit against F. W. Wilson W. T. R. Preston for publishing the charges in the Fort Hope Guide, a newspaper last June.

General Currie is now principal of Mc Gill University.
The one juror who dissented from the verdict was a World War veteran. The only other ex-serviceman on the jury voted in favor of General Currie from the first.
Sir Arthur's defense brought out that only one man was killed in Mons on Nov. 11, 1918 and that he was shot by a German sniper. It was testified that he had ordered the occupation of the Belgian city was not to be made at needless sacrifice of life.

The defense produced several witnesses to testify they had seen bodies in the streets of Mons on armistice day.

ARREST 22 MICHIGAN MEN ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Marquette, Mich. (AP)—Twenty-two Iron Mountain and Norway, Mich. men and women arrested late Tuesday at Iron Mountain were brought here Wednesday morning for arraignment on liquor charges before Charles F. Burton, U. S. commissioner.
Six automobile loads of officers arrived in Iron Mountain Monday night but remained in obscurity until the raids started. Seventeen of those arrested are from Iron Mountain and five from Norway.
The federal officers had between 40 and 50 search warrants issued following two months' work by federal investigators.
A number of Iron Mountain's soft drink parlors were padlocked after a clearing two years ago and several of those arrested were taken into custody Tuesday night.

HORSESHOES LUCKY TO MILWAUKEE PAIR AS BANDIT APPEARS

Milwaukee (AP)—Even in this prosaic modern day horseshoes still have their lucky powers.
Carl Schultz and Clara Lutroop of Milwaukee will agree to that. They were sitting in a park here when a bandit approached, they told police.

"Stick 'em up," he said. They prepared to do so. Then a horseshoe game, in progress a few feet away, broke up. Its participants started walking toward Carl and Clara.

"Curse" for words to that effect muttered the bandit, and vanished.

WISCONSIN STUDENT REFUSES ELECTION TO PHI BETA KAPPA

Madison (AP)—Miss Olga Rubins, Philadelphia University of Wisconsin senior, has refused election to Phi Beta Kappa national honor scholarship society.
Miss Rubins is one of 43 Wisconsin students elected to membership Tuesday. In a letter declining the honor, she gave as her reason that she is opposed to a national honor bestowed on basis of high grades, which are not a genuine criterion of true scholarship and intellectual achievement, and that the distinction is "often conferred upon the unworthy as well as the worthy."

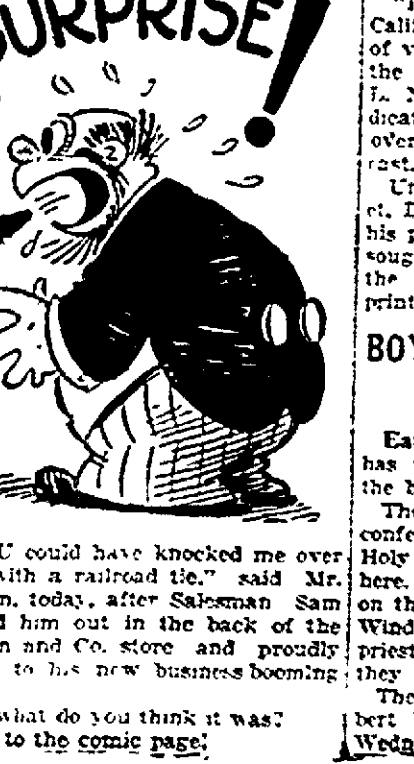

A large portion of the worthy who do not happen to excel in grades are excluded.

Last Minute Bulletins

Shanghai, China (AP)—Walter E. Wilson, Jr., of Greenville, N. C., American vice consul at Shanghai since 1920, disappeared Tuesday morning after leaving his residence, presumably to play golf. He had not returned up to a late hour Wednesday and a search for him has been unavailing.

Washington (AP)—President Coolidge informed Representative Menzies of Pennsylvania Wednesday that he had definitely decided to deliver a Memorial day address at Gettysburg instead of at Arlington, as has been customary in the past.

Peking (AP)—The Northern forces, it is reported here and generally believed, have been defeated in North Shansi and forced to withdraw. Thirty-five hundred wounded have arrived here.

CHARGE BOYS PLAY ON SOFT GOLF COURSES

Complaints have been received by George T. Prim, chief of police, from directors of golf courses here, that cadettes and prospective cadettes have been cutting up the courses by playing on them while the ground is soft. Chief Prim said he had been asked to investigate and to warn the boys to keep off the courses until they are opened. He has appointed a police officer to make an investigation.

America Should Be In World Court, Dr. Wriston Says

(Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of articles prepared by prominent Outagamie-co residents on what they believe should be contained in an ideal "platform" for the major political parties in the United States. These articles were prepared at the request of The Post-Crescent. Another article will appear in the near future.)

BY DR. H. M. WRISTON
President, Lawrence College

An ideal party platform may be ideal from either one of two points of view. It may be ideal from the standpoint of the party which wishes to get into office, and which therefore seeks to please as many people as possible without making definite commitments; or it may be ideal in the opposite sense of a platform so frank, so bold, and outspoken in facing the issues, that no party would adopt it. I shall take the word in the second sense, and comment on two or three of the issues without attempting to make a statement in platform style.

The fundamental issue, so it seems to me, is the reorganization of the political life of the nation in its dealings with other nations upon the assumption of peace. We have a world-wide commerce which has been built on the assumption of peace. We want a world market for our manufactures which can only be maintained on that basis. We have organized our cities and our domestic life upon that assumption, and we should now make what sacrifices may prove to be necessary to organize international life upon the same assumption. It is foolish to build our whole domestic structure upon the assumption of peace, and our whole international structure upon the assumption of war.

The United States for a century took the lead in promoting arbitration and judicial settlement of international disputes. It was the first to propose a world court. The time has come to give up spitting constitutional hairs, and enter the world court with the Harding-Hughes reservations.

If the United States will accept compulsory jurisdiction of the World Court, it will open the way for the other great powers to do so. In fact,

4 DRUNKEN DRIVERS ARRESTED IN APRIL

Police Here Pick Up Thirty-two Persons for Violation of Laws

Thirty-two arrests were made by Appleton police during April, of which four were for drunken driving and two were for drunkenness, according to the monthly report of George T. Prim, chief of police. Six arrests were made for speeding.

In March there were seven arrests for drunkenness and no arrests for speeding. Motorcycle officers had not yet started to patrol the streets that month. The police car made 32 runs in April and traveled 630 miles.

Other arrests in April were: Selling mortgaged property, 1; assault with intent to rape, 2; having illicit liquor in possession, 3; operating car without proper license, 1; manslaughter, 1; disorderly conduct, 2; keeping bees in city limits, 1; larceny, 1; passing worthless checks, 1; driving car without license, 1; driving car with muffler open, 1; taking improper liberties with child, 1; turning in false fire alarm, 1; parking car in alley, 1; assault and battery, 1.

Two fugitives from justice were arrested.

It will virtually amount to a moral compulsion upon them to do so. Such an action would restore to the United States the leadership which it held for a century, and which it has only lately lost. It would not affect the security of the United States, because the United States is in a position by nature more secure than that of any other great power.

A second issue of great importance is the solution of the problem of constitutional enforcement. The Eighteenth Amendment was put into the Constitution as one of three which have been added to the Constitution without force or threat of force. It represents conviction, therefore, more nearly than most other amendments, and in that sense its moral position is vastly stronger than the position of the Civil War amendments. The issue should be faced clearly—whether the amendment should be taken out of the Constitution by constitutional methods, or whether it should be enforced. People who claim to be one hundred percent Americans cannot at the same moment continue to be defiant toward part of the Constitution. They must become nullificationists, and Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln said the last words on nullification that ever need to be said. An honest and sincere enforcement will demonstrate whether this great social experiment is a success or failure. What we need is demonstration rather than propaganda, and proof rather than argument.

A third issue of great importance is the relationship between the United States and the Philippine Islands. The facts are clear. The United States took the Philippines without fully understanding the obligations it was assuming. We publicly stated that the occupation was for a limited term, that the Islands would be trained in self-government, and would then be given their independence. The passing years have raised questions whether we can teach another people to govern themselves, and whether, in particular, the methods we have employed, have succeeded in teaching these people self-government. The promises we made have become inconvenient. The time has now come to state plainly whether we intend to modify those promises—if so, upon what terms—or whether we intend to fulfill them. It is not adequate to say that the Philippines have prospered. Prosperity is not satisfaction. Prosperity alone would not satisfy any of us. It did not satisfy our forefathers who fought for independence. I do not think that the precise policy we pursue is of nearly so much importance as that we should have a clear, definite, and understandable statement of policy in order to put an end to the equivocal position in which we now stand, having promised independence, and at the same time refusing to make any move in the direction of independence. Indeed, since the Wood-Forbes report, we have moved rather in the opposite direction.

There are other important issues, but I will leave them for others to discuss.

STORM OF FIGURES FOLLOWS STORM OF SAND OVER APPLETON

An enterprising Appleton business man with a penchant and talent for statistics took a pencil in hand after the "mud storm" Monday afternoon and figured at least 27,632 windows in Appleton buildings had to be washed to get rid of the Kansas and Nebraska real estate brought here by a strong wind and washed down by a rain.

This enterprising statistician diagnosed the mud as a combination of Nebraska and Kansas sand and after wearing down two pencil points computed that about 66 tons of western real estate was deposited in Appleton, but after two more hours of cogitation he couldn't determine the value of this additional land.

Assuming that Appleton women still cling to time-honored theory that Monday is blue and good for washing, the expert with figures estimated that 54 miles of washing had to be taken in and re-washed after the storm. No estimate was made of the number of imprecations hurled at the weatherman.

Carrying his estimates along a little further, he figured that 6,620 automobiles were in need of washing.

LETTER GOLF

THIS SOUNDS DANGEROUS. Many an unexpected SKID develops from a sudden TURN, but in letter golf it can be done on purpose in just seven moves. One solution you may be able to beat is on page 3.

T	U	R	N

THE RULES
1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Pittsburgh.—"My love and affection for $15,000." The widow of a man who died of a heart attack, is looking for a husband. She is a native of Pittsburgh and has a young son, 4 years old, who is a very bright child. She is willing to marry a man for $15,000, but she is not willing to marry a man who is not a native of Pittsburgh. "I am a widow and want a husband," she said. "I suppose I will be a widow for the rest of my life. WARDENS TAKE SPAWN FROM SHAWANO PIKE

Shawano.—For the past two weeks, Frank Fritchard, a state game warden, has been directing the stripping of spawn from pike in Shawano lake. Another warden from Madison, Alfred Reed, and Joseph Bartlett, Shawano, are assisting in the work which is confined to the west shore.

Four nets, each 150 feet in length, placed at right angles to the shore, are drawn in each day, and contain many beautiful specimens, some more than two feet long. The males are placed in an enclosure and when spawning time arrives are stripped of the spawn and thrown back into the lake. The spawn milk is removed from the males, and placed with the spawn, mixed with clay water, packed in containers, and shipped to the hatchery at Madison.

It is estimated that there are 25,000 eggs in each quart of spawn, approximately eight quarts being taken at each lifting of the nets. By this protected method, about 70 per cent of the eggs hatch, whereas only one per cent would hatch under natural conditions. About 100 carp were also removed from the lake Thursday, according to the workmen.

Based on an interview with O. W. Webster, superintendent of the state hatcheries, L. J. Brunner, president of the local chapter of Izak Walton's, stated that the proposed hatchery for Shawano lake is practically assured.

COMMISSIONERS MEET AND ELECT OFFICERS

Alice Parnahy of Pittsburgh, shown here with her 4-year-old son, is willing to marry a man for $15,000, the money to be used in paying off a mortgage on her mother's home and to assure her son an education.

Medium Fails In Attempt To Reproduce Houdini's Words

New York.—(AP)—An attempt by a self-styled medium to materialize the spirit of Harry Houdini before a critical audience was a complete failure today.

The attempt was made at the offices of Science and invention, a publication which has offered a prize of $21,000 for any phenomenon that can not be duplicated or explained by natural, scientific means.

Mrs. Houdini, widow of the magician who attended the seance, also has offered $10,000 to any one who will bring her a ten-word message her husband wrote during life and which he told her he would repeat after death if possible.

The medium, Nino Pecoraro, a portrait painter from the Bronx, was stripped, then dressed in a white shirt and trousers, strapped to a chair, tied hand and foot with ropes, and the mittens he donned were sewed to his shirt sleeves. All knots were sealed with wax and he then was placed behind a black curtain and lights were turned out.

After a short while a voice purported to be that of his "spirit control," came from behind the curtain saying Houdini would "come through." The voice said she would count three in Italian and then the cameras which had been prepared to photograph anything that might appear were to "shoot."

But no materialism took place, although several times what was purported to be the voice of Houdini was heard.

BADGER ADVERTISING COST $15,803,897

Amount Expended in 1927 Was by 293 of 7,262 Manufacturing Concerns

A total sum of $15,803,897 was spent for national advertising in 1927 by only 293 of Wisconsin's 7,262 manufacturing establishments. Obviously, 293 concerns are but a small portion of the entire number of Wisconsin factories that find it necessary to engage in national advertising in an effort to sell their products, from 75 to 95 per cent of which are marketed outside our state boundaries.

ANALYSIS OF EXPENDITURES

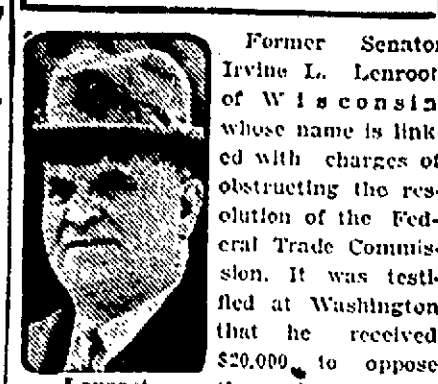

Analysis of the reports from 293 factories reveals the fact that 35 per cent of the reporting concerns spent from $10,000 to $100,000 for national advertising during the year; 8 per cent spent from $100,000 to $500,000 and 5 per cent spent upward of $500,000.

The number of advertising pages that the sum of $15,803,897 would pay for in a nationally known weekly periodical may serve as an illustration of the extent of this advertising expenditure. Figured at the regular single-page, one-color rates of this publication, $15,803,897 would pay for 1,975 full pages during the year, or 38 pages in each weekly issue. Assuming the average size of the paper to be 160 pages this would represent approximately one-third of its weekly advertising space filled by Badger State manufacturers' ads alone.

DIVIDING ADVERTISING

The same sum of money would pay for 687 double-page spreads in four colors, or 13 double-page spreads in each weekly issue. But actually only a part of the $15,803,897 spent annually for national advertising goes to this single publication. The expenditure is divided among national magazines, trade paper and newspaper advertising, reaching out to all readers in the nation in an effort to find a market for Made-in-Wisconsin manufactured products.

QUESTION BOUNDARY OF LAKE FRONT LOTS

Kenneberg Holds Lake Shore and Meander Line Is a State Problem

Madison.—(AP)—The state supreme court again has before it consideration of ownership of titles to lands lying between "meander lines" and the actual shores of lakes in Wisconsin. Its consideration of the question involves title to more than 4,000 miles of lake frontage in the state.

Adolph Kenneberg, railroad commissioner, has filed a brief with the court, holding that the court erred in a decision last month. In that decision it ruled that the question whether a United States patent to a fractional government lot includes both the meander line and the shore line of an inland lake is not a Federal question, but must be determined according to the laws and decisions of the courts of the state in which the lands lie.

A meander line is the survey line run roughly around the shore of a lake. It does not follow the actual shore line, but, due to difficulties of the survey, it is an uneven line, leaving considerable land on the lake frontage between the "meander" and the actual shore. The term "meander" is taken from a river in Asia noted for its irregular course.

Mr. Kenneberg's action in filing brief as "friend of the court," is unusual in that the case already has been decided, and his brief reopens the question for the court. He explains that he has not taken the step out of particular interest in the immediate case of Blatchford against Henry Voss, et al, but because the court's decision is of vital significance to all owners of lake shore property in the state.

The many rulings which have come from the high court from time to time, Mr. Kenneberg says, have created considerable doubt in property owners' minds as to the soundness of their title, and how much land they really own.

The question, in short, is whether a lake front lot's boundaries extend across a meander survey line to the water's edge, or if they stop at the meander.

Mr. Kenneberg believes he is justified in filing his brief on the ground that state officials and departments should cooperate with each other in settling problems confronting the state.

He feels that the court has erred in its ruling, and from the information available to him as a member of the railroad commission, he is pointing out to it the error.

AUDITOR WORKING ON FREIGHT DEPOT BOOKS

C. W. Busch, Milwaukee, auditor for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad is auditing the books of the local freight depot this week. Mr. Busch arrived in Appleton on Monday and will remain until Thursday.

Now You Can SEE Film Removed from Your Teeth

by Scientific Solution called Semafor

Signals Danger or Safety by Turning White or Staying Pink in the Mouth

Now you can really know when the film is removed from teeth. For Semafor—a new antiseptic solution—actually takes it off, and you can see the film in the glass of solution.

You can now see mouth acid—which fosters germs of decay—actually destroyed. For Semafor turns white in acid mouths, and resumes its pink color when the acid is gone.

You can now taste sweetened mouth—(feels clean, smooth, nearly teeth and pleasant after-glow of gums and membrane). You can now get rid of repellent odors like halitosis, and food fermentation.

Dentists call this wonderful method "Visible Mouth Hygiene." This new solution, named Semafor, makes it possible in every home.

Dr. Alfred Kropp, B.S., M.A., Ph.D., an authority on purifiers, created Semafor at a dentist's suggestion. Thousands are rapidly taking it up, and recommending it. Ask your dentist about Semafor, and watch Thursday's paper, for coupon good for 35c bottle free.

This Introductory Offer is limited. More bottles will be offered at the regular price only.

Valuable booklet on "Visible Mouth Hygiene" comes with every bottle. It shows how to test and cleanse the mouths of all the family. For example:

How to See Film Removed

Put Tablespoon of Semafor into half glass of water. Dip tooth brush in this solution. Brush teeth, then rinse brush in glass of solution. Brush teeth and rinse brush this way four times. Then put a few drops of Semafor in a glass of water. Dip tooth brush in this solution. Brush teeth, then rinse brush in glass of solution. Brush teeth and rinse brush this way four times. Then put a few drops of Semafor in a glass of water. Dip tooth brush in this solution. Brush teeth, then rinse brush in glass of solution. Brush teeth and rinse brush this way four times.

When has a mouth been effectively cleaned of fermenting food particles? When is acid destroyed? When are repellent odors, like halitosis, replaced by sweet breath and pleasant taste? Present methods do not tell. In only few cases is a single rinsing enough. Some mouths require three or four rinsings, twice daily. Some five or six after each meal. And many need dental or medical attention. Semafor reveals the condition by changing color in the mouth.

Semafor tells how many rinsings each mouth needs, and cleanses and deodorizes. As improvement takes place from the regular use of Semafor, it shows this improvement. For its pink color is restored by fewer rinsings. When the mouth is clean and beautiful, Semafor stays pink.

No need now to remain in the dark. Clip free coupon from Thursday's newspaper. Make tests shown in free booklet—"Visible Mouth Hygiene"—this booklet comes with the bottle.

MENASHA COUNCILMEN TOLD BUT ONE FUND NOW SHOWS A DEFICIT

Clerk Authorized to Advise for Bids for Decorating Council Chambers

Menasha—The monthly financial statement read by City Clerk John Sedwaby, Jr., at the council meeting Tuesday night showed that, with the exception of the recreational fund, the deficits of the different funds have been wiped out. The deficit of the recreation fund is less than $400. The water and light fund with a balance of more than $44,000 leads all the other funds and the general fund is second with more than $32,000. The library fund has the third highest balance, more than $19,000.

Financial statement on April 30, 1927, showed: water and light fund, $44,109.65; board of education, $6,377.55; industrial, $4,709.64; library board, $19,186.73; firemen pension fund, $4,999.62; cemetery, $4,167.03; recreation, $392.21; total, $116,217.39. The recreation fund, $116,825.14. The report was accepted and placed on file.

Mayor Held announced members of the new park board. They are G. A. Loesch, L. J. Ellinger, Jr., George Banta, Jr., John Schreibles, J. Lebl, W. H. Nelson, and Emil Schultz. New board members appointed were: H. H. Miner, H. E. Trilling and S. H. Cline. M. J. Croeling was appointed a member of the fire and police commission in place of Mr. Meier. Herman Pedra, commissioner of poor, reported that he extended aid to 11 families during April at an expenditure of $10.60.

Upon the recommendation of the fire and city hall committee the city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for decorating the council chambers, the bids to be returnable on May 15. Joseph Polanski was appointed design inspector. The design of Mrs. J. J. Schreibles, Plino, was rejected. It was decided to repair portions of Fifth and Railroad-st with crushed rock.

The recommendation of the police committee for the appointment of an additional policeman was rejected. It was decided to purchase additional uniforms. The standing committee announced by Mayor Held two weeks ago were affirmed. The petition of John Schreiber for a sidewalk on Fourth-st was referred to the street committee to bring in a report. The petition of eight signers to have Brighton beach road put in proper condition was referred to the street committee and city attorney.

In the matter of the application to increase the water rates, a letter from the Wisconsin railroad commission was read by the clerk to the effect that a hearing will be held at Madison on May 15. The city attorney, Mr. Donahue, of Green Bay, officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway company, addressed the council relative to the placing of signals at the Taylor and Third-st crossings. Instead of placing flags or wigwag signals, at these crossings, they suggested that the switchmen do the flagging and after a lengthy discussion were permitted to give the plan a 30 day trial. The bonds of the city clerk, poor commissioner, street commissioner and judge of the peace were approved by the city attorney to whom they were referred.

A claim of David Brettaufer for $386.50 was referred to the city attorney and finance committee. An ordinance amending the ordinance controlling dance halls was referred to the ordinance committee after a lengthy discussion.

Miss Edna Robertson was authorized to attend the conference of social workers at Marinette on May 22, 23 and 24 and submit a report to the common council upon her return. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for 10,000 gallons of road oil for use on streets, the bids to be returnable May 15.

An invitation from Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee to attend the annual convention of the League of Municipalities at Milwaukee, May 23, 24 and 25, was read and accepted. It was decided that the council, including the city clerk and superintendent of water and light should attend. An invitation for the city to send a representative to the conference of sealers of weights and measures at Washington, D. C., was read but upon motion of Alderman Kelly no action was taken. A discussion on the lowering of the railroad crossing on Abbey-ave between Menasha and Neenah resulted in the city attorney being instructed to take up the matter with the Soo Line.

The council voted to render a bill to the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company covering its share up to date of the proposed new Tayco-st bridge including the $40,000 the city has paid to the county and the initiatory costs of preparing the plans and specifications and the use of patent rights which the city has advanced to the company. The decision was in the form of a resolution which was unanimously adopted.

"HIER BIN ICH, MEINE FREUNDE"

Here is an interesting portrait study of Baron von Huonfeld, poet and flyer from Germany who, monochrome and all, flew across the Atlantic. A reporter in New York the other day asked the Freiherr to write a poem about the flight. "Ja, I am poor man," Von Huonfeld replied, proving that he and the English language are not so well acquainted. Later on he'll write a poem, though, the jaunty baron assures us, as the flight "filled him with poetry." To date the flyer has lost that monochrome only once since he left Germany in the Bremen, and that was when he miscalculated the height of a sedan door in New York City and his head bumped the top. He caught it dextrously in his right hand, quickly restored it and was well.

WEEKLY PAPER PAID FOR SINGLE INSERTION

GIVE VIEW ON GIRLS INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

Madison—(P)—Miss Harriett Grim, member of the state board of control, will present her ideas on the needs of the proposed new state industrial school for girls before the Northeastern conference on social welfare at Marinette May 22-24.

Miss Grim has been seeking, on behalf of the control board, some person or community willing to donate sufficient land for the new industrial school.

Among her ideas, many of which were gained during an inspection trip of such institutions in the eastern states, is that the institutions should be a training school rather than purely a correctional one. The education of girls sent to it should be along the lines of vocational training which will help them after they leave the school.

Rather than housing all the members of the school in one or more large buildings, Miss Grim advocates small living units—cottages housing not more than 20 girls. Each cottage would be a complete housekeeping unit.

A program of recreation, with the school building containing a gymnasium and assembly hall as the center of activities, is also a part of her plan.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

What strength must North have to make an original suit-bid after passes by South (Dealer) and West? At one time it was the practice for Third Hand to bid one of a suit that he desired his partner to lead if he expected No Trump should be bid on his left; this he would do without any special number of tricks. While this was undesirable from the lead indicating viewpoint, there were two practical objections to it.

(a) Being an original bid without a definite strength standard, it put Dealer in doubt as to how far he might go in supporting it.

(b) It frequently opened the bidding of deals which would have been passed out by Fourth Hand and forced North and South to defend with hands too weak for successful defense.

In deference to the soundness of these objections, modern practice provides that Third Hand, to justify an original suit-bid of one, should have a holding a little stronger than is required for a minimum strength initial subbid of one. This additional strength requirement means no more than King-Jack or Queen-Jack; but it must be present regardless of the length of the suit it supplements. Of course this rule, like all rules, does not have to be followed with freak hands.

Typical hands which would make sound original Third Hand sub-bids follow.

TEST 2 STATUTES IN STATE SUPREME COURT NEXT WEEK

Constitutionality of Gas Tax and Borrowing of Money to Be Decided on Madison—(P)—Actions to test the constitutionality of two statutes, and possibly of a third, are expected to be initiated before the state supreme court May 8.

Martin Paulson, city attorney of Racine, will seek to have the court declare the state gasoline tax law unconstitutional on the ground that it discriminates against owners of automobiles.

The state teachers' association, acting through Guy F. Loomis, Kenosha, superintendent of schools at that city, will probably bring the case to determine if the statute enabling the Wisconsin building corporation to borrow funds with which to erect University buildings is constitutional. The teachers are vitally interested in the question because money from the state teachers' retirement and already has been lent for the erection of the University Memorial building, and the building corporation wants to borrow more for the erection of a field house.

In neither of these two cases will the attorney general, acting on behalf of the state, oppose the supreme court's taking original jurisdiction. The state legal department takes the position that if there is any doubt as to the constitutionality of the two laws, the question should be decided by the high bench.

The test of the gasoline tax law involves annual income to the state of six million dollars which goes to the highway development. The Racine official is not attempting to obtain a temporary restraining order forbidding the collection or expending of any of that amount. If such were his intent, the attorney general's office says it would oppose the court considering the case, because it would force the state to have so much money tied up for several months time while the case is being decided.

A third case which the supreme court may hear is action on the part of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway company to test the state's right to impose bus license fees on busses operated by railroad companies.

An attorney of the road, in discussing the law with the attorney general, pointed out that railroads are already taxed on their rolling stock, and that a bus license becomes an additional tax on the same property. The attorney general is preparing to bring friendly mandamus action to test the law, but it is not known whether he is prepared to present the matter to the court May 8.

BORAH, THE UNBOSSSED, IS GIVEN CREDIT FOR MANY AFFILIATIONS

Has Been in Nation's Service for 20 Years but Is Not Near Presidency

EDITORS: This, the 19th in a series of President Campaign Portraits written for the Post-Crescent by Robert Talley, tells the story of Senator William F. Borah of Idaho. Tomorrow's article will be about Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
Washington—For the better part of 20 years he has been talking about William F. Borah, of Idaho, as a candidate for president. He is often called "the ablest man in the U. S. Senate," but he probably is no nearer the nomination today than he ever was or ever will be, although visions of the White House doubtless color his imagination.

For Senator Borah, technically a Republican, has the political misfortune of being too blamed independent to suit the tastes of the party leaders who stand behind the scenes at every national convention and pull the strings from which the nomination dangles.

Sometimes Borah marches with one crowd, sometimes he marches with the other and just as often he marches alone. But always he marches along the path that he has set out for himself after deep study of the pending question, regardless of party tradition or political expediency.

Another objection raised against Borah is that he is "anti-everything," which is easily understood, as most of his great battles during his 20 years in the Senate have found him opposing measures, rather than proposing them.

He was opposed to America's entry into the League of Nations, opposed to the child labor amendment, opposed to the soldier bonus, opposed to the Pacific pact, opposed to the World Court, opposed to the British debt funding arrangements and opposed on many other big issues. He was opposed to the 18th amendment and is now opposed to modification of the Volstead act; he was opposed to American intervention in Nicaragua, but more recently he has opposed withdrawal of the marines from that country.

Borah has initiated so little legislation and fought so much legislation that a psychologist might define him as having a negative complex. But others regard Borah, a deep student of constitutional government, as a sort of legislative safety valve and a bulwark against legislation that threatens conflict with constitutional principles.

His seeming inconsistencies can be explained. Originally opposed to the 18th amendment, on constitutional grounds, he now accepts it as the will of the people and opposes indirect attempts to destroy its effect by weakening the Volstead act. Originally opposed to Nicaraguan intervention, he has regarded retention of the marines there as necessary to carry out "the solemn agreement" by which they were sent into that country.

The fact that Senator Borah represents one of the smallest states in the Union—there are fewer people in all Idaho than there are in a few city blocks in New York or Chicago—allows him a freedom of time for the study of national and international questions. Also, he is not faced with worries about political expedience, as Idaho accepted Borah as an institution in such a manner as would seem to guarantee his reelection perpetually.

This allowed him time, for example, to learn to read Spanish at 61 so he could better understand Latin-American problems.

Like the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, Senator Borah is one of the "show pieces" of Washington. In whispers, the capitol guides point him out to tourists from the Senate galleries.

There he sits at his flat-topped desk on the Republican side of the center aisle, four rows back from the vice president's rostrum. His wavy, dark hair is parted in the middle; his broad face is creased with deep lines; bushy brows overhang a pair of keenly penetrating blue eyes. His habitually gloomy expression seldom changes. He is 63 years old and looks every day of it.

When Borah, stocky of build and generous of frame, stands up to speak there is something about him that reminds one of a huge bear—it is an instantaneous impression that even the stranger cannot escape.

Borah, admittedly one of the Senate's greatest orators, is no flaming, fiery speaker. He does not shout, yell, bang the desk or make motions like a man going through his morning exercises. Emphasis is limited to an occasional shake of his busy head or a slight pause—ever so delicate—just before a word that he wishes to stress.

A political reducer, Senator Borah is much the same socially. He accepts a few of the invitations for dinner engagements and the like, with which every prominent man in Washington is surrounded by artful diplomats and aspiring hostesses. He maintains a home in neither Washington nor in Boise, Idaho, living in a small hotel apartment at each place. He does not drink or smoke, although he chews gum.

Plain in actions as he is in looks, Borah rides to and from the capitol every day on the street cars, often lugging a heavy load of books under his arm. He does not own an automobile, so when the White House wants him for an important consultation on foreign affairs it has to send one of the president's limousines for him.

Borah owns a horse—a fine one named "Governor." He is a maverick, but solitary, figure along the bridge paths in Rock Creek Park. Fate and an incident case of tuberculosis, long since shaken off, explain why Borah comes from Idaho.

He was born in Wayne County, Illinois, July 29, 1855, the son of a Presbyterian farmer of moderate means. His father's ancestry was German, his mother's Irish. At 17 he left the farm to enter Southern Illinois Academy at Enfield, now defunct. While there his health began to fail. He had a married sister living in Lawrence, Kan., and he thought the climate there would be better for him. At Lawrence, Kan., he attended the state university, teaching certain classes to supplement his income. Then he read law for two years in a brother-in-law's office at Lyons, Kan. In 1889—when 25—he was admitted to the bar and he started for Seattle to seek his fortune in the new country of the great northwest.

But Borah never got to Seattle. At Boise, Idaho, his money ran out, so he settled there. He made a success at the practice of law and by 1900 he was one of the biggest men in Boise.

Borah first came into national fame when he was employed as a special prosecutor to prosecute dynamiters in the labor war that raged in Idaho. For the dynamiting of the home of Governor Steunenberg, in which the governor was killed, he sent several men to the penitentiary.

But this did not weaken Borah in the eyes of the law-abiding labor element, as shown by the fact that when he first ran for the Senate in 1907, he showed great strength in labor counties. He entered the Senate Jan. 15, 1907, and has been there ever since. His present term will expire in 1931. Although Senator Borah is chairman of the powerful Committee on Foreign Relations, he has never been abroad for the simple reason that he has felt himself unable to afford it on his salary as a senator, which is about his only income.

Despite his record for liberalism, Borah stayed with Taft when Roosevelt booted the party in 1912. Yet, before and since that time he has often been one of his party's severest critics. Only recently, with his customary independence, he has embarrassed Republican leaders by asking for a private fund to repay Harry Sinclair's campaign contributions of 1920 and thus erase the stain.

At about the same time he sent each Republican presidential candidate a questionnaire asking his views on prohibition. His announced purpose was to place all candidates on record in advance of the convention.

Playing Together for Past
24 Months

Appleton high school band will be entered as class C in the state school band contest at the new community building at Waupun on May 18 and 19. Approximately 50 high school bands of the state will be in the contest, according to E. C. Moore, director of the local high school band.

The Appleton band has had 24 months of experience in playing together, which entitles it to be entered as class C. High schools with 12 months of experience are entered as D; 36 months as class B and 48 as class A.

Three numbers will be played by each band entering the contest. The local high school band will play a warming-up march entitled "New Colonial March" by R. B. Hall; a set piece, "Shades of Night" by Franklin; and "The Scurf Dance" by Chamblade.

Winners of the various classes will be awarded cups and the winners in class A will be given the opportunity of entering the interstate contest at Joliet, Ill. on May 25 and 26. Each member of winning bands will receive a gold medal.

Glen Geneva plays at Darboys Thurs., May 3rd.

CAN THE RICH BE CONVICTED?

The high school student often struggled with one side or the other of the debate, "Who was the greater president, Lincoln or Washington?" or "Who was the greater general, Julius Caesar or Napoleon Bonaparte?" There wasn't much of a standard by which to weigh the ability or greatness of men in different generations or centuries but the questions afforded good mental exercise.

Along the same line the Forum contains a debate, "Can the rich be convicted?" with Arthur Train upholding the affirmative and Upton Sinclair saying it is impossible. Train starts off with the assertion that rich men have been sent to jail from the days of Boss Tweed to those of Charles W. Morse but claims that the rich do not commit crimes in the same proportion that others do and distinguishes between a rich "criminal" and a rich "malefactor," the one violating the law and the other doing things that ought to be crimes but aren't. He claims that the most infamous railroad wrecker the century ever knew asked his lawyers but one question, "Don't tell me what I can do or can't do; I know what I can do; what I want to know is, can they lock me up for it?"

Along this line he points out that Roosevelt chose his words with exact care when he coined the phrase, "malefactors of great wealth" and when he announced that he was "going after them" but never that he was going to "convict them." He says:

"The comfortable rich man, surrounded as he is by every safeguard to his life and property, has far less temptation to commit sordid or violent crimes than his less fortunate compatriots. He can get what he wants by drawing a check, without hazarding jail. . . . If all the persons who commit crimes in the city of New York in a single day were rounded up, the natural percentage of rich to poor among them would be certainly no greater than among the entire population. It would be small. So would be that of Scotchmen to Italians; yet, it would not occur to any, I assume, to ask whether or not a Scotchman would be convicted."

Yet in spite of all this, Mr. Train realizes and concedes that when a rich man does commit a direct violation of law, while he may be and often is convicted, the chances in his favor are greater than those in favor of the poor man, not that his money may be necessarily used in corrupting justice but that it gives him advantages in the way of capable, astute, shrewd lawyers who secure delays until people forget, during which time undesirable witnesses leave the state, perhaps for France, or are induced to "forget" or "find that they were mistaken," or in a certain class of cases the rich man may make restitution to the injured person or the one who has made complaint.

But to Mr. Sinclair justice hasn't a chance in a thousand of prevailing against a man with money. He considers the entire social, business and political structure honeycombed, dripping with corruption. He says:

"Last month I was talking with a federal judge who has his offices in the financial district of a certain American city—I won't name it because the conversation was confidential. He waved his arm and said, 'Sinclair, there are more criminals within three hundred yards of this place than there are in all the jails of the state.' Later on, I happened to ask him why certain lawyers stayed on the executive committee of the bar association. 'Because,' said the judge, 'they know that while they are there they can never be sent to jail.' A few days later I repeated these remarks to a justice of the United States Supreme Court, who remarked, 'Both statements are the literal truth.'"

Mr. Sinclair sees it all through very dark glasses, apparently socialistic glasses. To him the trouble is with all the people, they are all going to the bowwows. It is near midnight as he writes and he says, "I can hear over the radio the ballroom of one of the most fashionable Los Angeles hotels. The orchestra is so drunk that the music staggers, and the announcer is so drunk that he thinks it is funny—as he tells about the movie queens who are dancing there. He calls them to the microphone, and the movie queens are drunk too. America—young America—is listening." And so Mr. Sinclair reasons that when this same young America serves on juries it thinks in a drunken fashion and ends a drunken trial with a drunken verdict. He concludes with the statement: "The reason we can't send our rich criminals to jail is that we don't want to—we want to join them."

Neither debater considers an important human element which enters largely into juries' verdicts. The defendant is before and in close proximity to them during a protracted trial of several weeks. If his lawyers permit him to take the stand he generally makes a good witness because he knows how to conduct himself to the best advantage. The story of his life is put in with his early struggles against poverty. The good things he has done, and even the worst have done many of these, are tactfully displayed in their best dress and at the proper time. His weary and arduous climb up the ladder of success is given in its best colors, and there, at the top, he now sits before the jury and they are asked if they are going to topple the whole structure, and the fearful result of a guilty verdict is painted in the most harmful way. The jurors hesitate to create the seemingly terrible havoc that will follow a verdict of guilty, and with hesitation comes an acquittal. What else could have resulted in a mistrial with Attorney General Daugherty while the same jury at the same time convicted Miller, his brother conspirator, "A verdict of guilty to Harry Daugherty means his death, nothing else," shouted his lawyer; and the jury looking at Daugherty's drawn and haggard face believed it and didn't want to kill him.

Perhaps the kindest treatment of the subject is to say that jurors are human and subject to all the vagaries of human nature.

THE POLICEWOMAN

The policewoman is no longer an experiment; she is a permanent institution. Due to a misapprehension about the work, it has been difficult to get the right kind of woman for the job. Proper publicity, therefore, should be given the effort of the International Association of Policewomen to create in the public eye a vision of a youthful, well-groomed, feminine person as the proper picture of a policewoman.

She does not wear a uniform; she does not pound the streets with over-sized flat feet encased unglamorously in health shoes; she has not lost consciousness of her sex; she often is happily married and the mother of a family; she is not a perpetual groucher, and she enjoys good fun, according to Mrs. Van Winkle, the association's president, and a member of the Washington Police department. Mrs. Van Winkle, who holds the rank of lieutenant, says that the proper policewoman must be well educated, rather better than even the average social worker, and because of the many other high requirements for the job, it is very difficult for departments to get the right type, and because of the many other high requirements for the job, it is very difficult for departments to get the right type, and because of the many other high requirements for the job, it is very difficult for departments to get the right type.

Crime prevention is the problem of the day. Prevention work among women and children is certainly a proper field for women. There is the unadjusted girl and the unadjusted boy, the missing boy and the missing girl, there is the girl and the boy who at any cost must be kept from making the first misstep if they are to be saved for themselves and society. This is the work of a policewoman, but to be thoroughly effective, she must be of high caliber, intelligent, well educated and good looking.

AN OUTLINE OF HYGIENE

28.—Common Respiratory Infection

Practically the only sources or modes of infection with communicable disease one must consider in keeping well are these:

1. Intimate association with the sick person.
 2. Possible pollution of food or water.
 3. Opportunity for the agency of animate carriers.
- Most of the illness physicians attend to from respiratory infection. From the personal point of view this is the most important cause of illness and we ought to have a clear understanding of it. Respiratory infection means the terms of the disease enter the body through the respiratory tract. This does not mean that one merely inhales the germs; it means that the germs find or make a breach at some point in the breathing tract and through this enter the tissues.

Here is a list of diseases now recognized as respiratory infections:

- Acute rhinitis (coryza).
- Acute pharyngitis (sore throat).
- Acute tonsillitis.
- Quinsy (abscess around tonsil).
- Acute laryngitis.
- Acute bronchitis.
- Broncho pneumonia.
- Lobar pneumonia (lung fever).
- Influenza.
- Epidemic meningitis (brain fever).
- Diphtheria.
- Scarlet fever.

Measles.

- Whooping cough (pertussis).
- Mumps (epidemic parotitis).
- Smallpox (variola).
- Chicken pox (varicella).
- Infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis).
- Plague (pneumonia type).
- Pulmonary tuberculosis.
- Erysipelas.

Besides these specific diseases, there are many cases of unidentified sickness, so called "grippe" or "colds" that are unquestionably respiratory infections.

Formerly physicians imagined, and many laymen still imagine, that the virus or contagion of scarlet fever is in the rash or peeling skin and that the infection is carried by the skin directly through personal contact or indirectly through objects that have come in contact with the patient's skin. We know now that this is not so. The infection or virus of scarlet fever is only in the throat or other secretions. We know, also, that one may have scarlet fever without a rash; that one may have scarlet fever without a rash; and these same medical scientists have recently produced sore throat (tonsillitis, fever, malaise, headache, leucocytosis, the sore throat developing 44 to 46 hours after inoculation in volunteer subjects by inoculating them with cultures of the bacteria obtained from the skin of a patient ill with erysipelas).

Probably the specific virus (no specific germ has been identified) of smallpox is present in the skin pustules, and there is some evidence that smallpox may be caught from actual contact with the skin of the patient, though the preponderance of evidence favors the belief that even this disease ordinarily spreads by respiratory infection.

One coming down with any of these respiratory infections is quite likely to assume it is "a cold," and as most of these diseases, especially measles, scarlet fever, are most virulently infectious or fever develops, the importance of respiratory infection should be manifest.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Girl Likes Fodder

I am a girl of 17 and I have a great craving for lettuce. Often I eat a whole head of it every day. Also I eat raw chopped meat. Is this good or bad for my health? (R. C. M.)

Answer—The lettuce is good for your health. The raw meat may also be good, but you must bear in mind that in eating raw or underdone meat you run a risk of infection with tapeworm or with trichina which is much more serious. Even government inspected meat is not safe to eat raw, and one-third of all meat sold is not inspected.

Hate Lip

What is hare lip due to? Is it likely to be transmitted to children born several years after correction by plastic operation? (D. H.)

Answer—Hare lip or cleft palate is due to the failure of embryonic structures to blend in the formation of the roof of the mouth. It is not likely to be transmitted to children, no matter whether it has been corrected by operation or not. Lip cleft club foot happen now and then in any family God only knows. We marvel that these imperfections of development are not more common.

A bill was introduced in the state assembly providing for a bounty of 15 cents each on crows and 25 cents each for hen hawks.

Outagamie county was free from hydrophobia for the first time in a year, according to veterinarians. At a meeting of the fire and police commissioners the previous evening Peter Erdman, resigned, was chosen to succeed himself.

T. H. Ryan returned the previous evening from St. Louis where he attended the dedicatory exercises of the Louisiana Purchase exposition. Very few Wisconsin people attended the exposition.

SHADES OF HOUDINI!

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

HOW "DELUGE" WAS WRITTEN

Perhaps the most successful romantic novel of the year in England and America, "Deluge," by S. Fowler Wright, was forced to enter the publishing field by the back door as it were. The story of the adventure of the manuscript, as is often the case is almost as romantic as the book itself.

S. Fowler Wright is an English lawyer. In addition to that he is a Dante scholar, a poet, and the editor of the English quarterly journal "Poetry and the Play." At the age of 24 he decided to write a romantic novel and he called it "Deluge." The idea of the story is that the crust of the earth in the civilized world gives way, practically repeating the deluge told of in the Bible. The greater part of Europe sinks and the Atlantic ocean covers it. Most of England sinks below the sea. A comparatively small section of land remains, inhabited by a few hundred people. The story concerns those people and their reaction to the sudden wiping out of the world's civilization.

It is a long book of nearly 400 pages. When the manuscript was finished Wright showed it to friends, among them a professional literary agent. They were unanimous in the opinion that the publishers would reject it in the form in which it was written. It was too unusual, they said. They suggested changes. The book should be written to suit the taste of the public and of the publishers, they said. What kind of thing happens now and then usually the writer either ignores the advice and takes his chances with the publishers or else he tinkers at his story and as likely as not spoils it. Wright did the unusual thing. He had some faith in his book and he published it himself privately.

How it is a fact born out by the figures that a privately published book is a flop nine times out of ten. "Deluge" is the exception. Hardly was the ink dry on it when the critics and publishers discovered it and in a few weeks, with the imprint of a regular publisher no more, it had become famous throughout the English speaking world.

It is now a best-seller, and what is best of all, it deserves it. "Deluge," of course, must not be judged by the standards of realistic fiction. It is avowedly a romance. It has a blood-and-thunder plot and the character studies are negligible. The dialog moreover is often stilted and there is a good deal of rather opinionated preaching in the book.

But all that is a thousand times made up for by the picture of the world sinking under the ocean. As a sheer feat of the imagination that picture is so remarkable that it would redeem faults a hundred times more serious than the book possesses.

The force of the picture of the deluge is multiplied several fold. The easy thing would have been to describe the tendency of any tissue to waste away when it is not given active employment. Hence it is that a certain reasonable amount of exercise is necessary not only for the proper growth of the tissues of the muscles of the body, but also for all of its organs.

Ancient man lived in the open and occasionally in caves. Modern man lives in vast barracks and office buildings far away from sunlight and pure air.

Even in the streets, however, men are assaulted with gases from machinery and motors, with dust from a thousand sources, with poisonous metallic substances from paints, vermilion, insect destroyers and similar sources of destruction.

Investigation by modern science is leading to actual knowledge of the way in which these factors attack the human body. In the physiological life of the future, these sources of industrial poisoning will be controlled.

DISUSE BRINGS DECAY
Physiologists have discovered that they call the atrophy or deterioration man in overalls puts a group of trained dogs through their paces; an acrobatic act, fresh from Europe, tries to pick up the American customs in circus behavior; the "glittering galaxy" assembles in side corner to prepare for the rehearsal of the bigger-and-better opening number. The great gardens spin with a discordant activity. It is, for the moment, a triumph of the individual performers. Soon, under the preparation of the super-director, who pieces the show together as a child makes a jigsaw puzzle, they will all become cogs in the great machine and begin their mechanical rounds. Soon they will be clocked and timed and stop-watched and their acts clocked off to the harmony of a prescribed routine. Soon they will be off and away to the road, to bring sleepless nights to millions of small boys the country over.

At times like this, I'm glad I wasn't a small-boy in New York. I'm glad my boyhood was spent in LaPeer county, Michigan, and Port Huron and Saginaw and Bay City.

Spring was a thrilling season, then, what with the circus posters appearing on the barns, and the first wintergreen berries to be found in outlying woods, and a bunch of wild violets to be taken home as a peace offering to parents who had long since heard the news that you had played hockey from the afternoon session of school; what with frogs beginning to croak in the ponds and pussywills growing fat along the shores and cat-tails luring from the safety of a marsh; what with the sacking of closets for last year's marbles and the careful shining up of the "glasses" and "allies."

New York youngsters, I have so often noticed, are handicapped even at marbles. They must play from the safety of street gutters or take chances on being hit by passing autos; they must seek out tiny earthen spots in public squares and keep their shooting within a radius of a few feet.

Notes from around town: Mechanical Harold Lloyds being sold in Times Square; Ann Sutherland, one-time leading light of the theater, now runs a ham-and-egg emporium in the Village; what you eat miss because it's painted like a circus wagon.

And, strange though it may be for a New Yorker to admit it, she says it's patterned after "Coffee Dams" in San Francisco. The most elaborate tattoo parties we saw in years flourishes on the Bowery around the corner from Chinatown.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau. Frederic C. Easkin, director, Washington, D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. Are radio telephones used on the trains in Germany? K. J.

A. The best trains provide this service for patrons. A lecturer recently stated that by means of this telephone, a traveler can call from his train any telephone in the Republic.

Q. What causes the day-to-day change in the weather—one cold, next warm, then perhaps cold again? W. C. T.

A. The Weather Bureau says that this is mainly due to changes in the direction of the wind, and that in turn to changes in the distribution of air over the surface of the earth. The causes operating and their effects are rather complicated, but go back mainly to circulation between the equatorial and polar regions (caused by the heating of the tropical regions and the cooling of the polar regions) as modified by the effects of the daily rotation of the earth.

Q. What is the name for the characteristic Tarasquean lace? N. D.

A. It is called mandrita. She grounds work of this lace is usually composed of fleets, or threads forming the radii of the circular pattern. Upon these are woven the designs.

Q. Was Jenny Lind paid well for her concerts? L. M. W.

A. Jenny Lind was the highest paid singer of her day, the price paid for a seat to hear her often being from seven to eight dollars. However, tickets sold at auction brought as high as $550 each. P. T. Barnum, in his autobiography, gives the amount paid to Jenny Lind for her American tour as $176,675.00. This entire amount was devoted to founding and endowing art scholarships and other charities in her native Sweden.

Q. How is electricity used in exterminating tomato worms? M. M.

A. This unusual application of electricity in agriculture is being demonstrated on the farm of L. W. Purdum and Sons, Danville, Va. Having tried all recommended measures for the control of the tomato worm without success, Mr. Purdum conceived the idea of trapping the tomato moth before it could lay eggs. A simple trap with a 40-watt lamp was constructed. A three quart pan containing kerosene is suspended from the reflector about six inches below the lamp. The lights attract the insects and in flying against the pan they drop into the kerosene underneath.

Q. What kind of a victory is one in which the losses of the victorious are dangerously great? S. M.

A. It is called a Pyrrhic victory. Pyrrhus, king of Epirus, after his defeat of the Romans at Asculum in 279 B. C., exclaimed, "One more such victory over the Romans, and we are utterly undone." The remark has been paraphrased often to suit similar occasions.

Q. Does a woman sit to the right or left of her dinner partner? W. R.

A. She sits to his right.

Q. Is fox paw fur particularly desirable? J. M. O'C.

A. A Fox-paw fur is short, rather undesirable, and less expensive than other portions of the fox pelt.

Q. To what church did John and Charles Wesley belong before founding the Methodist church? M.

A. Both were formerly members of the Church of England, which is similar to the Episcopal church in the United States.

Q. What is feretia? G. G.

A. It is a variety of non-saccharine sorghum native to the Sudan. It was introduced into the United States by the Department of Agriculture in 1906.

Q. Why was Providence, Rhode Island, so named? L. R. W.

A. It was the first settlement and mother town of the State. It was founded in 1639 by Roger Williams, who "in gratitude to his Supreme Deliverer" called the town, Providence.

Q. Would a hollow float of any material have greater buoyancy if filled with air or with compressed air? A. M. S.

A. Given the less weight of the body for a given volume the greater will be its buoyancy. Therefore, a hollow body containing compressed air would have less buoyancy than one filled with air at atmospheric pressure.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL'S CLASSIFICATION IS BIG AID TO STUDENTS

Being Classified as Secondary School Eliminates College Examination

Appleton high school has been chosen for membership in the North Central association of Colleges and Secondary schools for the twenty-fifth consecutive year, according to word received by H. H. Heblle, principal. About 2,000 schools in 22 states are members of the association.

The elections for this year took place at the thirty-third annual meeting of the association in Chicago on March 15 and 16.

Students attending a high school honored with a membership in the association have a number of advantages over students attending high schools not affiliated. College entrance examinations are not necessary for Appleton high school students or for any of the other high schools in the organization.

The object of the association is to establish closer relations between secondary schools and institutions of higher education within the North Central States and such territory as the association recognizes. The first aim of the association is to bring about a better acquaintance, a keener sympathy and heartier cooperation between the colleges and secondary schools. The second aim is to devise the best ways and means of solving their problems, and the third aim is to promote the physical, intellectual and moral wellbeing of students by urging proper sanitary conditions for school buildings, adequate library and laboratory facilities and higher standards of scholarship.

Only those schools are accredited which possess adequate organization, teaching force, standards of scholarship, and excellent equipment, and are of such character as will unhesitatingly commend them to any college or university in the north central territory.

The location and construction of the building, lighting, heating and ventilation of the rooms, nature of the lavatories, corridors, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning must be such as to insure hygienic conditions for pupils and teachers.

The library and laboratory facilities must be adequate to meet the needs of instruction in all courses offered. The library must be classified and cataloged, and an annual inventory should be made of laboratory and shop equipment. Accurate and complete records of attendance and scholarship must be kept in such form as to be conveniently used and safely preserved.

No four year high school that does not require at least one year of graduation and no three year high school that does not require eleven units or more for graduation is accredited. The school years must consist of a minimum of thirty-six weeks. The minimum length of a school year shall be forty minutes, exclusive of all time used in changing of classes or teachers.

URGE EARLY MAILING FOR MOTHERS' DAY GREETINGS

The volume of mail received at the postoffice Sunday, May 13, designated as Mothers Day, will greatly exceed that of last year according to F. F. Wetengel, acting postmaster, and unless greetings for that day are received on or before that date, they will lose much of the sentiment or value attached to them. Mr. Wetengel therefore urges the early mailing of cards intended for delivery on the Saturday before Mother's day. In order to insure delivery on Mothers Day, Mr. Wetengel points out, it is necessary to use a special delivery stamp. The greeting will then be delivered early Sunday morning or late Saturday night, depending on the time of its arrival at the postoffice.

COAL PRICE DECISION NOT LIKELY TO BRING REDUCED PRICE HERE

Pennsylvania and Ohio Operators Have Been at War for Many Years

The dispute over rates for carrying coal from Pennsylvania and southern Ohio points to lake-shore points has now reached the supreme court and nothing definite on the situation will be known until Supreme Justice W.

H. Taft renders his decision, according to Roy G. Wort, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce.

The fight over coal rates to lake-shore points has been in dispute for more than 10 years, since the Interstate Commerce Commission permitted the Pennsylvania miners to ship their product to those points at a rate of 25 cents per ton less than their Ohio competitors.

This grant was hotly disputed by the southern operators who took the matter into court but the verdict of the commission was upheld and eventually, another allowance, this time of 29 cents per ton, was made to the easterners.

Despite the difference in carrying charges, the Ohio group, far better organized and employing more improved

Through its superintendent of public property it is distributing to voters of the state a pamphlet describing the procedure to be followed by voters methods of mining, reduced its charges by 20 cents per ton and it is this action that the eastern operators are fighting.

The pamphlet is used not only by the individual voter for his own information, but by women's clubs, schools and various study groups. 183 Big cash prizes for the best letters in FERRY'S SEEDS

$5000.00 Contest

- $2000 in cash prizes for grown-ups
- $2000 in cash prizes for boys and girls
- $1000 in cash prizes for Ferry's Seed dealers

Send for our Annual

You men and women, you boys and girls—just a letter on "Why I Plant a Garden" will give you chances at 183 cash prizes. The first prize for grown-ups is $500; the next $200; the third $100; then eight $50 prizes; twenty $25 prizes; and thirty $10 prizes... 61 prizes for those over sixteen!

And for boys and girls, those sixteen and under, there are 105 cash prizes. The first prize is $500; the next prize $200; the third prize $100; then four $50 prizes; eight $25 prizes; twenty $15 prizes; thirty $10 prizes; and forty $5 prizes.

Note that men and women, and boys and girls write on the same subject, "Why I Plant a Garden." But the two contests are not to be confused. Boys and girls compete only with each other. Men and women compete only with themselves. The two sets of letters will be judged separately.

Those letters judged "best" will win prizes. "Best" means ideas only. Spelling, fine writing, don't count. None of the composition rules count—just the real whys for planting your garden. Perhaps you plant yours for the fresh garden foods; or for the finer health from working with growing things; or for the flowers for your table; or to beautify the home place. Your neighbor may plant hers for the pin money from selling the fresh vegetables. You write us your reasons; and have your neighbor write us hers. Read the rules; then mail your letter by May fifteenth, sure.

Ferry's Seed dealers, you share in this contest too. There are $1000 in cash prizes for the 17 best letters from dealers on "How I Promote the Sale of Ferry's Seeds." The first prize for

Ferry dealers is $300; the second $150; the third $100; then four $50 prizes; and ten $25 prizes. "Best" here means those letters most helpful to other dealers in selling Ferry's Seeds. Spelling and clever wording don't count here, either—just ideas; just the experiences you have had with the Ferry display boxes, the beautiful lithographed Ferry display packets, the attractive posters in your store window. Where do you display the Ferry box for maximum sales—on the right side of the store near the front? Read the rules—and you, too, get started.

RULES

- All letters (except those from Ferry's Seed dealers) must be on the subject "Why I Plant a Garden."
- Ferry's Seed dealers must write on the subject "How I Promote the Sale of Ferry's Seeds."
- Letters not to exceed 500 words.
- Contest commences NOW. Your letter must be mailed to D. M. Ferry & Co., Dept. H, Detroit, Michigan, by midnight May 15, 1928.
- Name and address of writer must appear at top of each page of letter. (Letters from those who are sixteen and under must state age of writer under name and address.)
- Employees of D. M. Ferry & Co. are not eligible.
- In event of tie, each tying contestant will receive full amount of prize.
- Awards will be made as soon after May 15th as possible, and all contestants will be notified.
- The judges will be: Dexter M. Ferry, Junior, President D. M. Ferry & Co.; E. T. Meredith, Publisher Better Homes and Gardens; H. Hayward, Mgr. Agricultural Bureau, N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.

CALUMET COUNTY

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSCOUNCIL REELECTS
CITY OFFICERS AND CONSIDERS SEWERS

Lefevre Again Is City Attorney and Dr. Nolan Is City Physician

Kaukauna—All city officials were reelected to office by the city council at its regular May meeting held Tuesday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. Joseph Lefevre again will be the city attorney and Dr. W. N. Nolan, city physician. Others elected by the council were: City health nurse, Miss Mattie J. Hayes; city engineer, Frank Charlesworth, Jr.; north side street commissioner, Thomas Reardon; south side street commissioner, Joseph Kuehn; bridge tenders, Lawe-st, Charles Walquist and John Nelson, Wisconsin-ave, William Alger and Hilman O'Brien.

The council elected C. E. Raught to the utility commission to succeed Hugo Wefenbach whose term expired on Oct. 1, 1922. Edward Haas was reelected to the board. His term expires Oct. 1, 1927. The council approved the appointment of Alderman E. R. Landreman to the utility commission by Mayor W. C. Sullivan.

A discussion was held on the recommendation of public works that a storm sewer be built on the north side to relieve the Moloch Machine and Foundry Co. of surface water on adjoining property. Frank Charlesworth, Jr., city engineer, said he believed the approximate cost of this sewer would be very near $10,000. Sewer pipe 36 inches in diameter would have to be laid at an average depth of about 14 feet from the property adjacent to the Moloch plant over Seymour-st to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad switch tracks and along the tracks, over Lawest to the ravine. This sewer costs about $7 a running foot, laid complete and the distance is about 1400 feet.

The engineer told the council that the sewer would drain all of the territory back of the Moloch plant and north to the city limits. Each year there is a pond near the machine company about a block long and from 5 to 6 feet deep. This water seeps through to the Moloch grounds and into the casting pits making it necessary for the workmen to bale out the water before castings can be poured. Alderman W. H. Cooper said he believed the council should inquire into the cost before going ahead with building it. It was finally decided that the recommendation be laid over until the next meeting on May 15 and that in the meantime the city engineer and north side sewer district make a more complete survey.

Another recommendation of the board of public works that the width of county trunks highways J and Z within the city limits be made 36 feet, was passed by the council. County trunk Q will be made 27 feet wide.

Alderman Cooper said there was a possibility of state trunk highways passing over the present county trunks and he believed it would be necessary to have the roads that wide. There has been some talk of state highway 55 passing out of the city on Lawest instead of going west on Taylor-st to Little Chute.

The request of A. Caspading that he be granted permission to collect garbage in the city was granted by the council. It is understood he will charge each family $1 a month for the collection.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan suggested that immediate action should be taken to equip two playgrounds, one on each side of the river.

Alderman Landreman made a motion that the north and south side road districts and board of health decide upon some property in the city, off a main highway, which may be used for a public dumping grounds. The city would purchase this property.

The motion was carried.

The council voted to mark an optional U. S. Highway 41 route which would carry motorists through the north side business section. The markers will be black on yellow and will carry the wording "U. S. highway 41 through business section."

Albert Luckow, fire chief, reported on the meeting of fire chiefs held at Appleton on April 26.

A petition asking the extension of the water main on Seventh-st and Tenth-ave was referred to the utility commission. It was announced that Alderman Frank Gertz had been elected president of the board of public works.

Miss Leonard Prima Donna of Vanity Box Revue was runner up in Miss America Beauty contest.

Miss Agnes Leonard, the attractive prima donna who comes to the Fischers Theatre Thursday and Friday in the musical comedy "Naughty Nanette" would undoubtedly be selected as Miss America at the Atlantic City Beauty Contest, had it not been for the unfortunate role which forbade stage beauties from entering the contest. Miss Leonard who was appearing in Earl Carroll's Vanities at that time, entered the bathing beauty contest at Coney Island, not knowing that stage stars were barred. She was unanimously chosen to represent greater New York, and would undoubtedly have won the honors of Atlantic City. Miss Leonard is the ideal type of American girlhood; she is a regular home girl, and when not actually in the theatre, spends all her time playing with the little children wherever she meets them. It is interesting to know that Miss Leonard conducted the "Children's Story Hour" WJZ and WOR New York's two greatest radio stations.

"WICKEDNESS PREFERRED"

Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, who have already made fame for themselves as co-starring team in such comedies as "Adam and Evil" and "Tea for Three," garner for themselves fresh laurels in "Wickedness Preferred," their new co-starring production at Fischers Appleton Theatre Thursday and Friday.

A few years ago nobody would have thought of these two as comedians. Lew was busy wrecking film homes and Aileen was a sophisticated player in dramas of the Elinor Glyn type.

Today they are creating quite as many laughs as any other team in the comedy field and "Wickedness Preferred" even outdo their own reputations as laugh-getters.

Lew is seen in the role of an author who writes his own adventures from data gathered from encyclopedias. Aileen plays the role of the wife who takes dictation, looks up the data for Lew's lies and recognizes to him a soul hungry for romance but unable to live up to his self-created reputation as explorer and adventurer.

Bert Roach is seen as a lazy and fat husband of Mary McAllister, who is a furious flapper, head-over-heels in love with the novelist whom she accepts as the daring hero he has depicted himself in his thrillers of life in the South Seas.

George K. Arthur does good work, though his role is small, being that of a male gossip at a celebrated and fashionable seaside resort, where the two married couples meet.

The picture has in it everything from fashionable resorts to barren and rocky islands where the two couples land as castaways and where Miss McAllister is disillusioned and Cody fails to make good in much the same predicament he has pictured himself as coming out of with such flying colors.

The picture was capably directed by Hobart Henley and the backgrounds, from a photographic standpoint, are extremely pleasing to the eye.

Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned! The old proverb has been

FLYERS' WIVES SHARE IN THEIR GLORY

So this is New York! Wives of two of the transatlantic Bremen's daring crew arrived just in time to share their husbands' glory. When Commandant Fitzmaurice, Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld were officially welcomed by Mayor Walker and thousands in New York. This picture shows (left) Mrs. Fitzmaurice, their daughter, Patricia Fitzmaurice, 6, and Mrs. Koehl as they appeared when they stepped from the liner Dresden, just before the triumphal parade up Fifth avenue began. In the rear is Alfred Mehan of Mayor Walker's welcoming committee. Baron von Huenefeld, the third Bremen flyer is unmarried.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice, a brunet, wore a moleskin coat with a spray of violetson the lapel and close-fitting dark hat covered with gold dots. Little Patricia wore a helmet of white straw. Mrs. Koehl wore grey shoes and stockings and a light grey double-breasted suit with a blue tie and light grey straw hat with a blue band.

Quick Action Necessary If You Want A Beautiful Lawn

Prospects for good lawns here this year do not look very good. At present because much of the grass was killed off by cold weather at a time when there was no snow to protect it.

J. G. Moore, horticulturist of the Wisconsin Agricultural College, offers a few suggestions which, if followed, will probably restore the growth.

To make a first class, permanent lawn, there should be a foot of good top soil, he says, explaining further that this does not mean that there should be a foot of so called surface soil or top dressing, but that eight inches or more of the soil, under the four or five inches of top dressing, should be such as to insure good drainage, a good food and water holding reservoir, and permit of deep rooting of grass.

Plant food requirements are partly taken care of, if manure is used; however, Moore emphasizes, an additional supply, as a rule, will be beneficial, and this in the form of some good commercial or "lawn c. garden" fertilizer, depending on the soil richness. After the lawn is established, sulphate of ammonia makes a very good fertilizer, he believes, saying that one pound per 1000 square feet, put on at three weeks intervals during the growing season, will encourage the grass to grow more vigorously.

Moore recommends as a good basic seed mixture, 4 pounds of Kentucky Blue grass, 2 pounds of Red Top, and 1 pound of Creeping Bent or Rhode Island Bent grass. This is enough seed for 200 square feet of lawn. For shady locations, add 2 to 3 pounds of Rough Stalked Meadow grass, and sow at the same rate. Many grass seed mixes contain Dutch White Clover. Its use is entirely a matter of taste, but it is a nuisance if it once established itself in the flower or shrub beds.

He advises mixing grass seed thoroughly before sowing, even though ready mixed seed is purchased, because of the difference in weight of the different seeds in the mixture, causing the heavier seeds to settle to the bottom. Seeding should preferably be done when there is no wind. Divide the seed into two lots. Moore advises, and then scatter one half, crossing the lawn in one direction, and then the other half, crossing at right angles to the first sowing.

Seed as early in the spring as possible. When the ground is still freezing and thawing is an excellent time and it may also be done in late August or early September. Under ordinary conditions, however, Moore says, it should not be attempted in June, July, or early August, nor after the middle of September.

GIRL ALONE

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SALLY FORD, 16, lives in the state orphanage, the only home Sally has known since she was four. It is rumored that the matron, MRS. STONE, has selfishly frustrated several proposed adoptions of Sally, wanting to keep her there where her understanding and sympathy with the small children make her a valuable helper. She is summoned to the matron's office where a man, a farmer, judging from his clothes, awaits her. Sally is suddenly paralyzed with fear. She wonders what it all means. Then brightening with the hope that perhaps it is a father come to claim a long-lost daughter, she hurries to the office door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

When Sally Ford opened the door of the office of the orphan asylum, radiance was wiped instantly from her delicate face, as if she had been stricken with sudden illness. For her worst fear was realized—the fear that had kept her awake many nights on her narrow cot, since her 16th birthday had passed. She covered against the door, clinging to the knob as if she were trying to rub her eyes. She went to flee from the disaster which fate, in bringing about her 16th birthday, had pitilessly planned for her, instead of the boon of long-lost relatives for which she had never entirely ceased to hope.

"Sally!" Mrs. Stone, exalted at the big roll-top desk, called sharply. "Say 'How do you do?' to the gentleman. . . . The girls are taught the finest manners here, Mr. Carson, but they are always a little shy with strangers."

"Howdy-do, Mr. Carson," Sally gasped in a whisper. "I believe this is the girl you ask for, Mr. Carson," Mrs. Stone went on briskly. In her pleasant "company voice," which every orphan could imitate with bitter accuracy.

"The man, a tall, gaunt, middle-aged farmer, nodded to speak, then hastily bent over a brass spittoon and spat. That necessary act performed, he eyed Sally with a keen, speculative gaze. His lean face was tanned to the color and texture of brown leather, against which a coating of talcum powder, applied after a close shave of his black beard, showed ludicrously.

"Yes, mum, that's the girl, all right. Seen her when I was last June. Wouldn't let me have her then, mum, you may recollect."

Mrs. Stone smiled graciously. "Yes, I remember, Mr. Carson, and I was very sorry to disappoint you, but we have an unbreakable rule here not to board out one of our dear little girls until she is 16 years old. Sally was 16 last week, and now that school is out, I see no reason why she shouldn't make her home with your family for the summer—or longer if you like. The law doesn't compel us to send the girls to school after they are 16, you know."

"Yes'm, I've looked into the law," the farmer admitted. Then he turned upon Sally again. "Strange, healthy girl, I reckon? No sickness, no bad faults, willing to work for her board and keep?"

He rose, lifting his great length in sections, and slouched over to the girl who still cowered against the door. His big-knuckled brown hands fastened on her forearms, and when she shrank from his touch he nodded with satisfaction. "Good big muscles, even if she is a skinny little runt. I always say these skinny, wiry little women can beat the fat one 'at 'em all."

"Sally is strong and she's marvelous with children. We've never had a better worker than Sally, and since she's been raised in the Home, she's used to work, Mr. Carson, although no one could say we are not good to our girls. I'm sure you'll find her."

hunted eyes—that was the fate which being 16 had brought upon Sally Ford.

Every June they came—farmers like Clem Carson, seeking "hired girls" whom they would not have to pay. Carson himself had taken three girls from the orphanage. Rena Cooper, who had gone to the Carson farm when Sally was 13, had come back to the Home in September, a broken, dispirited thing—Rena, who had been so gay and bright and saucy. Annie Springer had been his choice the next year, and Annie had never come back. The story that drifted into the orphanage by some mysterious grapevine had it that Annie had found a "fellow on the farm, a hired man, with whom she had wandered away without the formality of a marriage ceremony."

The third summer, when he could not have Sally, he had taken Ruby Presser, pretty, sweet little Ruby, who had been in love with Eddie Cobb, one of the orphaned boys, since she was 13 or 14 years old. Eddie had run away from the Home, after promising Ruby to come back for her and marry her when he was grown-up and making money for two to live on.

Ruby had gotten into mysterious trouble on the Carson farm—the "grapevine" never supplied concrete details—and Ruby had run away from the farm, only to be caught by the police and sent to the reformatory, the particular hell with which every orphan was threatened if she dared disobey even a minor rule of the Home.

Delicate, sweet little Ruby in the reformatory—that evil place where "in-corrigeables" poisoned the minds of good girls like Ruby Presser, made angels of them, too.

"Tell Mr. Carson, Sally, that you'll appreciate having a nice home for the summer—a nice country home," Mrs. Stone prompted, her eye stern and commanding.

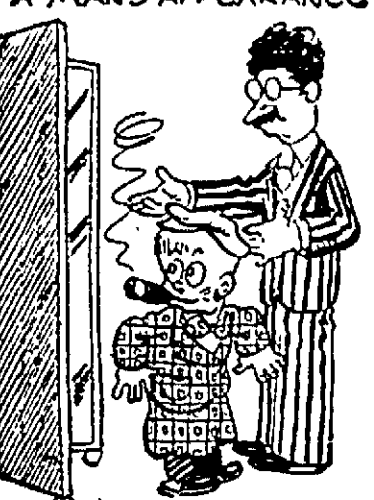

And Sally, taught all her life to conceal her feelings from those in authority and to obey promptly, gulped against the lump in her throat so that she could utter the lie in the language which Mrs. Stone had chosen.

The matron closed the door upon herself and the farmer, leaving Sally a quivering, sobbing little thing, hid against the wall, her nails digging into the flesh of her palms. If anyone had asked her: "Sally, why is your heart broken? Why do you cry like that?" she could not have answered intelligently. She would have groped for words to express that quality within her that burned a steady flame at these years, unquenchable, even under the soul-stifling, damp blanket of charity. She knew dimly that it was pride—a fierce, arrogant pride, that told her that Sally Ford, by birth, was entitled to the best that life had to offer.

And now—her body quivered with an agony which had no name and which was the more terrible for its namelessness—she was to be thrust out into the world, or that part of the world represented by Clem Carson and his family. That bitter bread of charity, to slave for the food she put into her stomach, that cruel put into her stomach, that never tasted; to be treated as a servant, to have the shame of being an orphan, a child that nobody wanted, continuously held up before her shrinking.

The little touch of flattery did it, or maybe it was the pathos in those wide, blue eyes.

"It's against the rules," Miss Pond

quavered. "But—I know how you feel, Sally dear. I was raised in the Home myself, not knowing—I can't get your card out of the files now! Mrs. Stone might come and catch me. But I'll make some excuse to come up to the locker room when you're getting your things together. Oh—" she broke off. "I was just telling Sally how nice it will be for her to have a real home, Mrs. Stone."

Mrs. Stone closed the door firmly, her eyes stern upon Sally. "Of course it will be nice. And Sally must be properly appreciative. I did not like your manner to Mr. Carson, Sally. But run along now and pack. You may take your Sunday dress, and shoes and one of your every-day gingham. Mr. Carson will provide your clothes. His daughter is about your age, and he says her last year's dresses will be nicer than anything you've ever had."

"Yes, Mrs. Stone. Sally ducked her head and sidled out of the door, but before it closed she exchanged a fleet, meaningful look with Miss Pond.

"I'm going to know!" Sally whispered to herself, as she ran down the long, narrow corridor. "I'm going to know! About my mother!" And color swept over her face, performing the miracle that changed her from a colorless little orphan into a near beauty.

REQUESTS FOR CITY AID SHOW DECLINE

Building activities and a slight increase in employment is given credit for the decrease in requests for help to E. G. Schueler, poor commissioner. There has been no great decrease in the number of applications, Mr. Schueler said, but indications are that demands will become less as warm weather approaches.

PAPER MILLS OUTPUT IS 110 CARS DAILY

Madison — (AP) — Wisconsin paper mills turn out 2,200 tons of paper daily, or enough to fill 110 box cars. Their annual production would fill 10,000 box cars, or make a freight

160,000 acres of DUNLOP cotton

"WHAT OF IT?... Supposing Dunlop does require all the cotton from 160,000 acres. What does that mean to my pocketbook?"

Just this. Dunlop has grown great because Dunlops save money. Over 26,000,000 Dunlops are now in use—each one saving money for its owner.

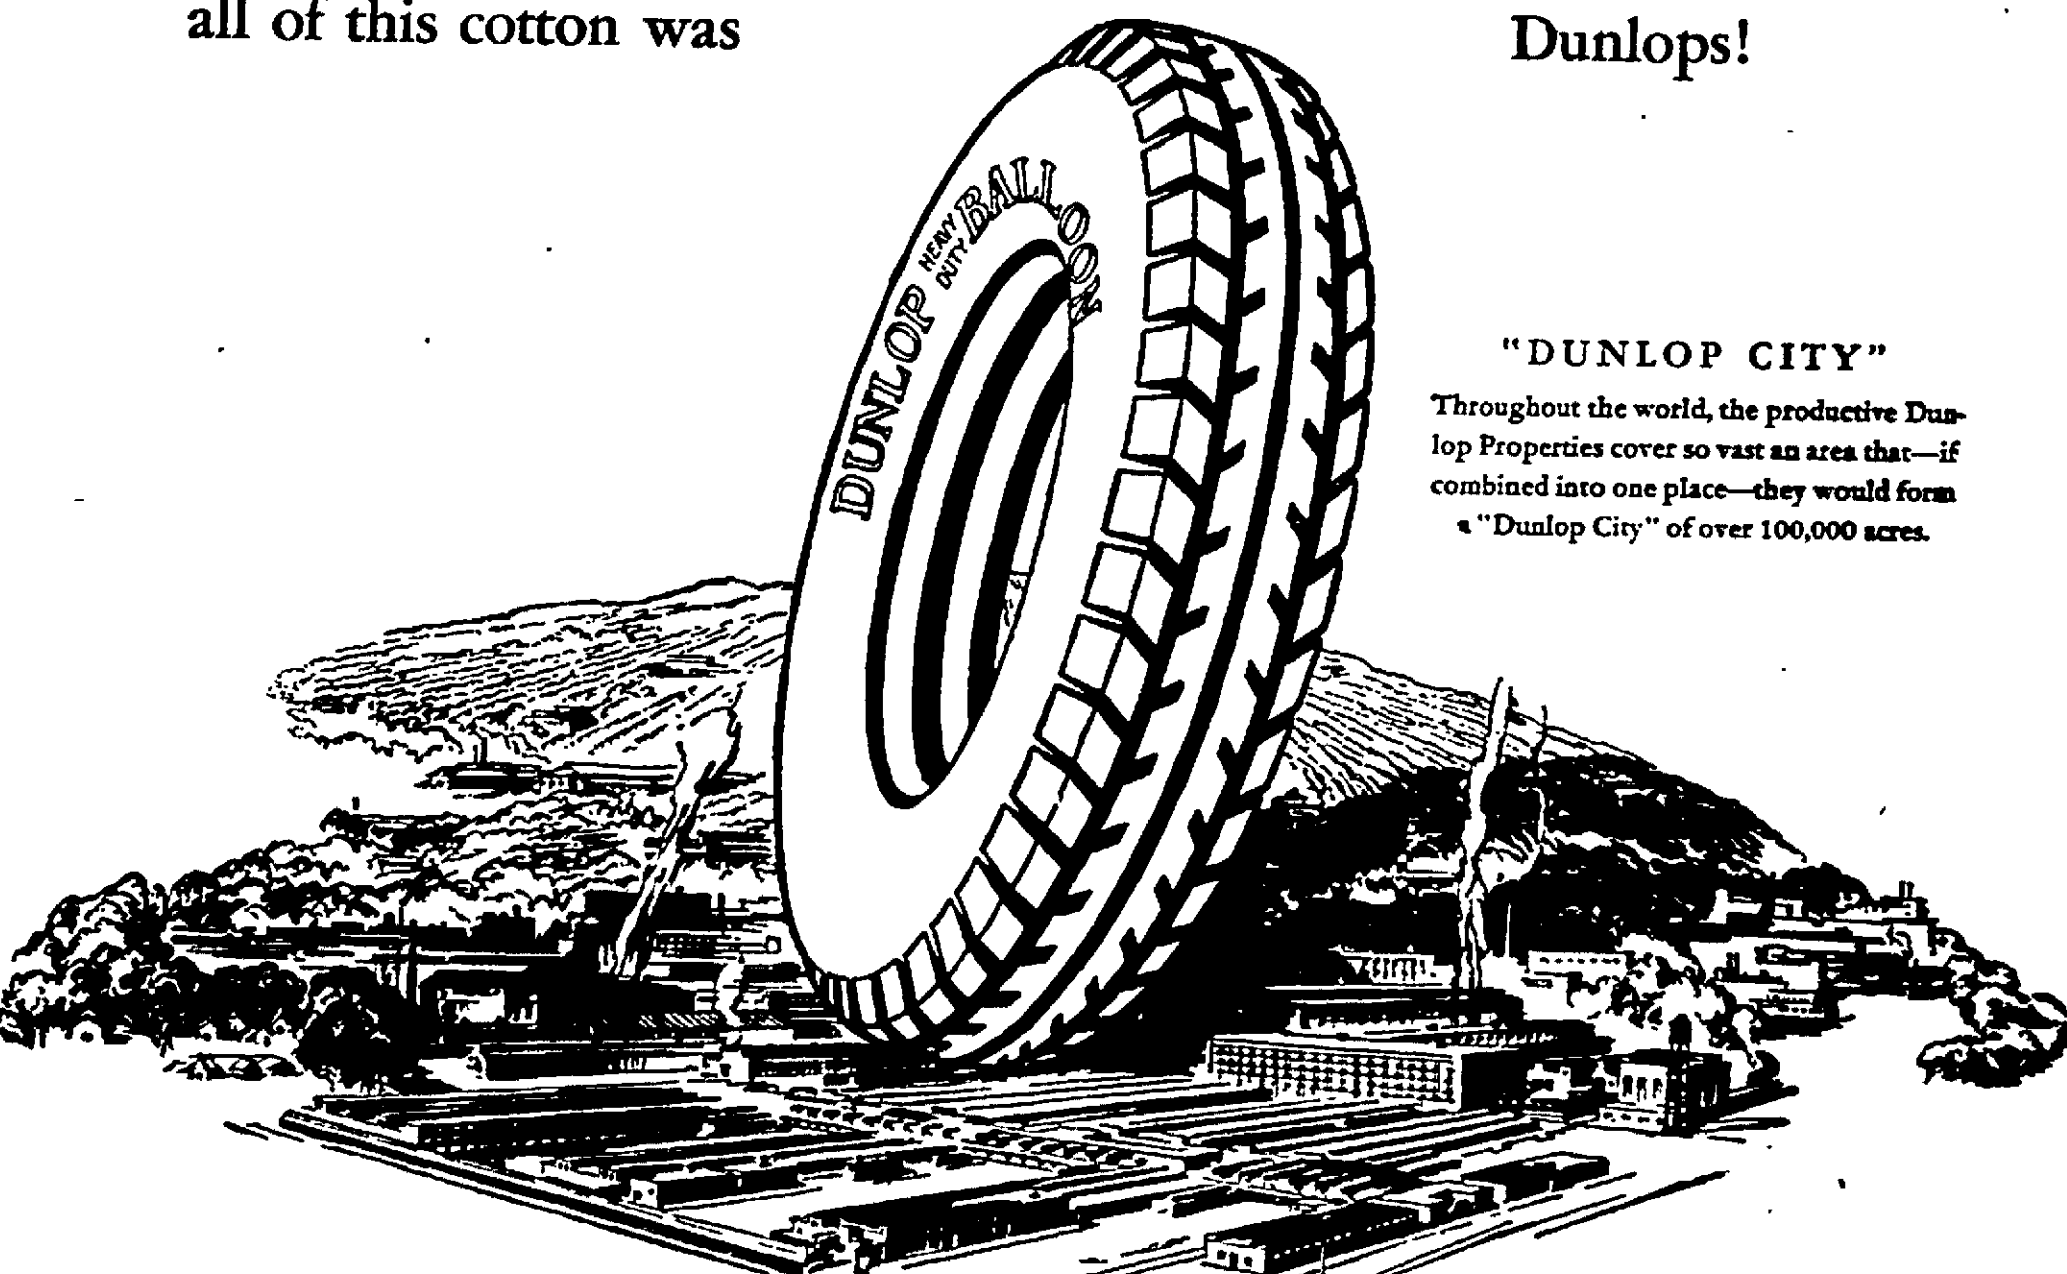

Last year, Dunlop required the cotton from 160,000 acres, and all of this cotton was spun into cable-twist cord at Dunlop's own cotton mills.

Dunlops are better tires—with greater safety, greater tread mileage, and greater carcass strength. Otherwise they couldn't have justified their slightly higher initial cost.

Yes... the 26 million Dunlops now in use are your guarantee that Dunlop must build only the best.

Save money—equip with Dunlops!

"DUNLOP CITY"

Throughout the world, the productive Dunlop Properties cover so vast an area that—if combined into one place—they would form a "Dunlop City" of over 100,000 acres.

More Than Arms and Legs

H. Gordon Selfridge, one of the world's foremost merchants, says in his book, "The Romance of Commerce":

"There is so much more to the employee than two arms and two legs. There is the spirit of enthusiasm and earnestness and 'I will' which means more to the employer than ten pairs of arms and legs. And loyalty is a quality to be earned by the employer from the employee and only earned by fair, friendly, generous treatment."

These are the views of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—views which it has expressed concretely. By all the means known to enlightened modern business, this Company has endeavored to earn and hold the loyalty of its employees.

The Industrial Relations Plan, the Death Benefit, the Annuity Plan and the Employees' Stock Purchasing Plans are concrete expressions of its desire to give employees "fair, friendly, generous treatment."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a human organization—made up of 27,010 human beings. These men and women are not considered merely as working units—so many arms and legs—so much mind and muscle. Each is an individual who makes his contribution to the enormous capital of human effort necessary to carry on the work of the Company.

All men are equal in the opportunities they enjoy in this Company. There is no place in the organization out of reach of the man with the ambition and the ability to fill it.

This democratic policy has developed a smooth-running, efficient organization in which every man's ability is utilized to best advantage, in which every job is done by the man best qualified to do it.

In addition, this policy promotes a feeling of friendly cooperation among employees. Men in responsible positions have consideration born of actual experience for those lower in the ranks.

Men in the lower ranks have respect for those higher up because they know that these men have earned the right to their responsibilities.

As a result, a friendly helpful spirit prevails among employees. They are bound together by mutual appreciation and by a profound loyalty to their Company.

The spirit within the organization is reflected without and it is this spirit that is fundamental to the success of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Red Crown discs peppering the Middle West have won their friendly welcome among motorists, not by their shape or color, but because of the spirit behind them, the spirit of thousands of men and women who work with enthusiasm, satisfied only when they have done their best.

Day Birds of Prey

The bold fierce hunters of the air correspond to the great flesh-eating mammals that prowl the earth. Swift-winged robbers they are, but serve their useful purposes, too, ridding the earth of pollution which would poison our health. They kill the superfluous in the huge bird family, and censor rats, snakes and herb-eaters. The artist has sketched a common European Buzzard.

Here an Osprey is shown plunging swiftly to the water. Soon he will emerge with a fat fish in his powerful talons.

Here is the Greenland Falcon which ranges from the old homes of the Norsemen, through northern Europe and the cold, dim lands of North America.

It is curious that men have been able to call into servitude birds from this fierce line. In the middle ages and earlier, falconry was a favorite sport in Europe. Falcons were trained to bring down birds from the sky and then return to the owner's wrist. Today in Palestine and India the Saker Falcon is used to hunt birds and animals in India. Finished in Roman Red Duco, with black body beading striped in gold...and embellished with artistic touches of gleaming polished nickel—this distinguished new model is one of the most attractive cars to be seen on the highways.

But equally impressive is the wide, practical utility of this latest Chevrolet achievement—a snug closed car for inclement weather...an open car for the warm days of summer...and ample room for two or four passengers, as the necessity may be!

And, of course, there is all the proved mechanical soundness, all the spirited, thrilling performance and all the staunchness of construction that have made Chevrolet the world's most luxurious low-priced automobile.

Appleton's First Class In Aviation Is Started

"Our first lesson will be on the operation of the Wright Whirlwind motor, is there anyone here who does not understand the functioning of an internal combustion engine?" Following that remark Monday night, Appleton's first class in aviation got underway in the office of the North American Airway company at George A. Whiting airport.

There were a dozen in the class for the most part youths who had seized the chance to take up the study while remaining at home.

They were not like a class in any other study now being taught. They were boys and men who realized that they were preparing for one of the most promising, although hazardous, industries in the world today.

As the class progressed, the students were taught the principles of the engine with continual warnings that the engine was a thing of the most important parts of an airplane and that the danger of its "conking out" was something always to be looked forward to.

Ground work will continue for several weeks, by which time new traveling ships are expected to be here.

REPORT NO FUN IN TROUT FISHING NOW

Anglers Say They Are Unable to Get to Streams Because of High Water

Camping in the northern woods is far from being ideal and pleasant, according to fishermen who were unable to catch trout in many of the northern streams because of high water and flooded regions. Much snow is reported in the woods.

Fishermen are advised to wait until later in the month when camping conditions are favorable and streams can be approached. If more anglers would wait until about June 1, local trout would be more plentiful.

There would be more trout and better conditions for catching them. Many of the roads now being cut up by early trout fishermen would then be dried up and in better shape.

BUSINESS REASON FOR SINCLAIR DEAL

Control of all of the royalty oil rights in the Salt Creek field.

"The only control my companies have to any oil in the Salt Creek field was based on the bids made to the interior department."

Senator Walsh of Montana, drew from Sinclair that in guaranteeing the Continental contract he took a chance on the concern paying him money for the oil.

The Continental said that in one month Sinclair had lost of losing $1,000,000 for his companies as the payment to the Continental was made five days in advance of the time the Continental was required to make payment to Humphreys.

Sinclair was asked about the statement made by his counsel, Martin W. Littleton, at his first trial for conspiracy, that it would be made clear that Sinclair never had any of the Continental trading company bonds.

Sinclair hesitated and then whispered to Littleton.

"All I have to say about it," he finally said, "is that it was the opening statement of my counsel."

"Well, what are the facts as to your ownership of the bonds?" Walsh asked.

"Senator, I testified Tuesday several times that I had no knowledge of knowing that they were Continental bonds."

"You were to get a part of profits of the Continental?" Sinclair was asked.

"No, I was to get a part of Mr. Blackmer's profits."

"Where did you think they came from?"

"I did not think, I knew they came from Mr. Blackmer."

Asked about Littleton's statement that Sinclair never passed bonds to Fall or any one on behalf of Fall, the witness said he could not say whether that statement was true or not true.

"The evidence before this committee is conclusive that you did pass such bonds," Senator Walsh observed.

Sinclair could offer no explanation why Blackmer brought the Continental Company into the deal instead of making the contracts himself.
